Hitler in Eger?---No!---Cubs in Chicago!

Windy City Welcome—While a band blares something about "Hail, the Conquering Hero," La Salle street, Chicago, gives the National League pennant grabbers a welcome that forgets the day of reckoning that comes with the first World Series game tomorrow. And, amid such a welcome, news bulletins came from Europe . . . of marching feet and "Heil, Hitler" in Eger . . . another kind of welcome, for another kind of hero.

Millions for N. E. Relief

F. D. Favors Flood Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (INS)—Army engineers today, at direction of President Roosevelt, prepared to launch a vast scale flood control program for New England in the wake of the recent devastating hurricane and flood.

The President directed that all available funds authorized in this year's funds for use in the New England area be made available.

AT LONG LAST—A flood of money to dam the flood of water that periodically sweeps New England—that's the $36,000,000 "good news" story today. And the need is shown again in the current flood at North Andover . . . where millions are needed to protect 10,000 homes.

Boston Evening American Photo

The engineers said $4,000,000 is available for reservoir and local protective works on the Connecticut and Merrimack rivers and that they are ready to go ahead with up to six reservoir projects and seven local protective works.

In addition the President notified WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins to find $7,000,000 of WPA funds to pad out the army's available money.

This $11,000,000 sum, under the President's direction, is to be expended by the end of the present fiscal year and the flood control work which he directed be placed immediately under way today, ultimately will entail expenditure of $36,630,000.

The engineers said it would be several days before an announcement can be made of the exact projects on which work will be begun, but that they probably will be part or all of the following projects on which they are ready to begin work:

Four reservoirs on the Connecticut River, including Union Village, Vt., Surrey Mountain, N. H.; Knightville, Mass., and Birchhill, Mass.

Two reservoirs on the Merrimack River at Franklin Falls and River Hill, N. H.

Seven local protective works on the Connecticut River, Fort Hartford, East Hartford, Springfield and West Springfield, Holyoke, Chicopee and Northampton.

McMasters For Saltonstall

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

A political bombshell was exploded at the Republican state convention in Tremont Temple today when William H. McMasters, independent candidate for governor and one-time ally of Democratic Nominee James M. Curley, came into the conveption hall and joined Leverett Saltonstall, Republican candidate, on the speakers' platform.

"I control my own vote, and he (Saltonstall) will have my vote on election day," McMasters told the delegates and spectators.

"I ask all those who intended to vote for me on election day to vote instead teh entire Republican ticket."

Just before voicing this unqualified indorsement, McMasters told the Boston Evening American:

"As far as I am concerned, my name is not on the ballot as a candidate."

McMasters was nominated on a Townsend platform. He received 45,000 votes in the primary.

BACK PENSION PLAN

McMasters described teh Townsend Plan as "a means of taxation and compulsory distribution of money on a monthly basis, permanent in its character and universal in its use. He declared:

"The Townsend Plan is designed to end the depression and start the nation back on the road to business recovery.

"I am pleased that this convention has seen its way clear to encourage the American system of government to the extent of pledging the Massachusetts Republican delegation in the Congress to work for the consideration of the Townsend bill.

"I trust that every other loyal follower of Dr. Townsend in Massachusetts will stand by the party that is advancing the cause for which al lof us have worked so sincerely."

Assembled delegates cheered themselves hoarse, while veteran politicians declared McMasters' going over to Saltonstall is one of the biggest political coups in years.

United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., keynoter of the convention, smilingly gripped hands with McMasters as the latter came to the speakers' stand. McMasters was given the seat of honor at

Suicide Wave In Czecho

LONDON, Oct. 4 (INS)—The London News-Chronicle reported from Prague today that "hundreds" of families were said to have committed suicide in Czechoslovakia's former Sudeten areas occupied by Germon troops.

Thousands of refugees were declared fleeing the Sudetenland to escape "Nazi terror."

The Daily Telegraph also reported in a Prague dispatch that a wave of suicides, similar to that which swept Austria last March after Adolf Hitler annexed that country, had begun in Czechoslovakia.

The famous Sudeten German democratic physician, Dr. Wolfgang Sabbath of Staab, wiped out himself and his family, the Telegraph's message said, by administering fatal injections to his wife, his two daughters and then to himself.

Daladier Lauds Roosevelt, Asks Hitler Treaty

PARIS, Oct. 4 (AP)—Premier Daladier today announced the beginning of a new era of friendly relations with Germany and Italy and paid homage to President Roosevelt's peace message during Europe's crisis week.

The Chamber of Deputies stood as one man to cheer when the Premier spoke of "the great, generous and logical voice of President Roosevelt" in referring to the President's appeals.

Reading a ministerial declaration on the four-power agreement over Czechoslovakia, he said his meeting with Adolf Hitler at Munich last week marked the start of friendly relations between France and Germany.

He declared France had decided to send an ambassador to Rome to resume cordial relations with Italy, in a virtual state of suspension for two years owing to France's refusal to recognize the conquest of Ethiopia.

The Premier carried into the session cabinet approval for proposed decree powers to "rebuild France's economy and finances."

While Daladier started reading the declaration to a jammed Chamber of Deputies his finance minister, Paul Marchandeau, said in the corridor that the government insists that parliament vote it full financial and economic decree powers tonight.

DICTATORIAL POWERS

He said the powers, which would amount to a virtual temporary dictatorship, would be requested until December 13, and that Daladier would stake the life of his government on the issue.

Daladier, in the name of the entire government, paid homage to the "courage of the Czechoslovak nation and its leaders."

He declared Czechoslovakia's present trials enable it to "reforge its political unity." He also paid tribute to British collaboration with France "during these difficult weeks."

The premier's proposal, which was to be submitted to parlia-

'She Can Have Him!' Is Cry of Eloper's Wife

SHIRLEY SMITH
Wife Pities Her

Exclusive

By BETTY Di PESA

Copyright, 1938, by Boston Evening American

"If this other girl wants him, she can have him. But I pity her from the bottom of my heart."

Pretty, dark-haired, young Mrs. Phyllis Hunter Newhall, working as a waitress in a well-known downtown restaurant, piled her tray with dishes as she talked.

She was found today by a Boston Evening American reporter, to whom she gave an exclusive interview.

By "this other girl" Mrs. Newhall meant 18-year-old Shirley Smith, a Winchester High School graduate of last June.

FELL FOR ROMEO

Discovered in Lexington, N. C., with Mrs. Newhall's estranged husband, Miss Smith was being brought home today by her well-to-do dad, C. Harold Smith of Winchester.

"I guess the Smith girl fell for George's Romeo act, just like I did," Mrs. Newhall said.

Neat and attractive in her starched uniform and frilled apron, she didn't let her discussion of her faithless mate's "love idyll" interfere with her job.

Between trips from restaurant table to kitchen, she continued:

"George was always a sweet sort of person. But he couldn't seem to grow up.

SWEPT OFF HER FEET

"I hadn't known him long when I married him, three years ago.

"He swept me off my feet. He must have used the same technique on this little Miss Smith. I hear she's just a kid.

"I learned my lesson the hard way. George was hopelessly impractical. He couldn't support himself, let alone support both of us.

"It was bills, bills, bills, all the time. We went to live with his mother, but that didn't help.

UNFAIR TO UNBORN

"The real reason I quit was because I was afraid we'd have a baby.

"It would have been cruel to bring a child into the world under the circumstances.

"George and I agreed to part. It was by mutual consent. It

Phillips Murder Case Given Jury

Judge Wilford Gray in Middlesex Criminal Court completed his charge and the cases of Wallace Green and Walter St. Sauveur, Somerville youths accused of murder, went to the jury at 12:15 p. m. today.

Defense counsel in closing argument stressed the denials of the two that either of them had any part in the holdup-killing, the night of May 31, of William Phillips, Somerville storekeeper.

Attorney George Lourie, for St. Sauveur, argued that Green and a man named Joe committed the holdup and murder.

He pointed out that St. Sauveur was well known in the Phillips store, and would hardly have gone there to take part in a holdup.

Robert McCarthy, Green's lawyer, made many references to the missing "Joe," and said the state hasn't made out a case. Assistant District Attorney William J. McCluckey denounced both defendants as "cold blooded killers."

DIVORCE FIGHT — Mrs. Agnes C. Moore of Worcester today faced divorce action of her husband, Sales Manager W. R. Moore of Worcester firm.

'Attack' Victim Ill in Bed

Mrs. Emma O'Holloran, 28, of Underhill street, Winthrop, allegedly attacked by Patrolman Michael Whalen of that town, will be confined to bed for at least 10 days.

That was the opinion advanced today by her physician, Dr. George H. Schwartz of Prince street, East Boston, who treated her for injury and shock.

Dr. Schwartz said it was unlikely she will be able to face Whalen in court Saturday when he appears for a continued hearing of charges she has brought against him.

He was arraigned yesterday, waived hearing of complaints charging assault with a dangerous weapon and a statutory offense and was allowed out in bail of $300.

Mrs. O'Holloran, mother of three children and wife of a Deer Island guard, was known before her marriage as "Chickie" Connors, a stage dancer.

She alleged Whalen attempted to attack her in his automobile in a sparsely-settled section of Winthrop while taking her home from a house-warming party.

King of Spain May Get Back Throne

PARIS, Oct. 4 (INS)—Restoration of a monarchy in Spain along constitutional lines is looming as a possible solution with which to end the Spanish civil war, it was learned today.

Both Spanish Royalist and Republican circles were said to be considering the return of King Alfonso XIII to the throne as the only visible means by which an armistice could be negotiated and a new all-Spanish government created in which both opposing factions could participate.

Mother Saves Boy, Baby in Maine Fire

LEWISTON, Me., Oct. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Aurore Laverdiere rescued her son Roger, four, and a 15-months-old baby girl today from a fire that destroyed her home.

Started by an overheated furnace, according to Deputy Fire Chief Z. F. Drouin, the blaze was well underway when it was discovered. Mrs. Laverdiere carried the sleeping children to safety.

JERSEY MAYOR DIES

KEARNEY, N. J., Oct. 4 (INS)—Mayor Arthur H. Jones, 55, who was serving his fifth term as mayor of Kearney, died today of pneumonia at his home here. He was born in Braintree, Mass., and educated at the Thayer Academy at Braintree.

Wife Gets 7 Years As Husband-Slayer

WATERBURY, Ct., Oct. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Thursa Scott, 25, was sentenced to the state prison for women for seven to ten years today for the fatal shooting of her husband, Howard Scott, 37, last August.

Superior Court Judge Ernest C. Simpson imposed the sentence after Mrs. Scott pleaded guilty.

Mayor Slashes Pay in Woburn; Battle Looms

Woburn police, firemen and teachers today faced an indefinite stretch of payless pay-days as a result of Mayor William Kane purging his economy axe on the municipal payroll.

Fortified by the plebiscite a few months ago, which empowered him to slash department budgets 20 per cent, the mayor announced most of the city employes had drawn "as much as they are worth" in salaries already.

For the remainder of the year, he stated, there will be no more funds allotted for salary payments.

BATTLE THREATENED

The employes affected, however, will not take the mayoral wage slash lying down.

The school teachers have engaged counsel to fight the economy order while police and firemen are

Catholics War On Atheists

HARTFORD, Ct., Oct. 4—The fourth National Catechetical Congress today went into final sessions here following a plea by John Moody, New York business man and Catholic convert, to wage a war in behalf of truth.

Speaking at a dinner attended by Catholic clergy and laity, Moody said:

"The greatest menace to the Church today is not the opposition of those who attack it: it is the laxity and indifference of so many of its own members.

"There would be no danger of atheism triumphing in America if every Catholic layman knew the correct answers when anyone attempted to question him or shake his faith."

Moody said he spoke not only to warn of the danger of atheism in a confused world but also to tell of the personal joy and peace that the layman feels from the full practice of Catholic life.

The sessions will close today with the benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament in St. Joseph's Church, with Anna Kaskas, Metropolitan Opera contralto and a Hartford resident, the soloist.

Thousands of clergy and laymen have gathered here from all parts of the nation for the Congress, with the Hotel Bond as headquarters.

Among brilliant speakers who have addressed the attendants are the Most Rev. Edwin V. O'Hara, bishop of Great Falls, Mont.; the Most Rev. Matthew F. Brady, D.D., bishop-elect of Burlington, and Right Rev. Msgr. Michael J. Ready, executive secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

On Sunday, the Right Rev. Msgr. Ready declared that a militant church was needed "to meet a growing blatant spirit of irreligion."

Farmers Flay Daily 'Chisel'

Faneuil Hall farmers today charged they were victims of city "chiselers" who levied more than $20 a day on their meagre earnings for the simple service of cleaning the streets in which they park their wagons.

In answer to the city's declaration that only $20 is collected weekly—10 cents from each farmer—for the street cleaning the farmers stated they had been made the targets of a much more lucrative "racket."

"I myself have paid as high as 50 cents on one occasion," one farmer said. "At other times it has been a quarter—the smallest amount a dime."

TIMILTY BANS COLLECTION

A uniformed policeman always collected the money, it was declared.

Simultaneously, Police Commissioner Timilty issued strict orders against the collection of money in the future by police officers.

"No member of the police department has any right to act as a collecting agent, and I certainly would not permit such a thing," Commissioner Timility stated.

"If the superintendent of markets or any city department wish collections made, they must use collectors of their own and not police officers."

The commissioner said there would be no investigation of the complaints, disclosed in a Boston City Council meeting by Councillor Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., that patrolmen collected dimes from farmers to pay for cleaning streets in the market district.

NO INVESTIGATION

Councillor Wilson's order for an investigation by the mayor was passed by the council.

Samuel R. Goodwin, superintendent of markets, stated the system of collecting 10 cents from each farmer in the Faneuil Hall district was started by him three weeks ago and that between $20 and $25 has been collected each week, and turned over to City Collector Merritt Thompson.

From 6 to 10 a. m., the market men dirty the streets, Superintendent Goodwin declared, and he gave them orders to "Clean up or pay up."

G-Men Close in On Tibbett Thief

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4 (INS)—Arrests in connection with the high seas theft of $50,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett were believed near today as two federal investigators sailed with the Matson liner Monterey for San Francisco.

Acting on a clue uncovered after they had questioned the crew and passengers of the ship throughout this afternoon, G-men V. I. Parry and G. V. Dierst were reported to have narrowed their inquiries to one or two suspects, who will be grilled while the Monterey sails north.

The large jewel loss was discovered by the wife of the noted operatic and concert singer as she packed her belongings, and prepared to disembark from the ship. According to Tibbett, the gems disappeared from the couple's stateroom while he and his wife were dining and dancing.

Because the theft occurred on the high seas, Federal Bureau of Investigation men boarded the Monterey as soon as she dropped anchor in fog-bound San Pedro harbor.

They were believed to be acting on a report that an employe of the liner had been overheard discussing methods of getting the stolen jewels ashore.

Toscanini 'Talks Self' Out of Visa

By FRANK GERVASI
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, Oct. 4 (INS)—Arturo Toscanini will not be permitted to leave Italy, International News Service learned officially today, because he is a "very talkative man."

A spokesman of the Italian press ministry declared the famous orchestra conductor's passport has not been renewed and will not be renewed for an indefinite period.

"Toscanini will not be allowed to leave Italy," the spokesman said. "But it is absolutely false to say that he is in jail or has been in jail or deprived of his personal liberty in any way.

"He is a very talkative man and it is not prudent that he should go out of the country and say the turbulent things that he does.

"He is an orchestra conductor, but he cannot consider himself a demi-god.

"There is no connection between this restrictive measure and the Jewish situation in Italy or the fact that Toscanini's daughter, Countess Castelbarco, married a Jew.

"It is simply that he is a turbulent person and it is unwise that he should go abroad and talk in his violent way."

The ruling of the government that the conductor may not leave Italy apparently will prevent him from carrying out a broadcasting engagement in the United States.

TALKS TOO MUCH—And that's the reason the Italian government gives for keeping Arturo Toscanini, famed orchestra leader, within its borders. Cited as "no reason" is the fact that the maestro's daughter married a Jew. Arturo's art is shown here.

isn't true we ever quarrelled about my having men friends.

"I never went out with anybody else when I was living with George.

"Neither is it true I went to Salt Lake City, Utah, after George and I separated.

"I got a job and went to work, right here in Boston. I've been working for two years, paying up old bills and trying to get enough money ahead to hire a lawyer and obtain a divorce.

HE'S HER WORRY NOW

"That's all I want now — a divorce!

"I'm not jealous of the Smith girl. I'm not bitter at George. He can't help being what he is.

"All this talk about his 'sweet romance' and 'love idyll' with Miss Smith would be funny, though, if it weren't sad—for her.

"Even when we were first separated, he used to boast to me about his other girl friends. One of them lived in Somerville. That was before he even met Miss Smith.

"From now on, George is her worry, not mine. I didn't know much about life and love, but I learned.

BONE WITH ROMEOS

"I've got a job now and I'm independent. I'm not asking anything, except my freedom. I live at home in Reading with my parents.

"As for the Smith girl, I pity her from the bottom of my heart. But if she wants George, she can have him."

Young Mrs. Newhall, still looking younger than her 22 years, finished piling her tray.

"No more Romeos for me," she said, striding briskly off to the kitchen, her burden deftly shouldered.

Less cynical, when last interviewed, was Miss Smith.

LOVE AND LOYALTY

Before starting north from North Carolina with her father, she said:

"George and I love each other, deeply and truly, and no one can keep us apart.

"Whatever happens, I'll be loyal to him. We'll find some way we can be happy together."

And Newhall, held by police at Lexington, N. C., and awaiting extradition on abduction and federal Mann act charges, also still viewed the situation romantically.

"Even if they send me to prison," he said, "I won't regret my love for Shirley.

"The happiness she and I have shared is worth whatever it may cost.

"Regardless of what happens to me, I'll obtain a divorce and marry Shirley, just as soon as I can."

Race Against U. S. Jail

Tax Dodgers Rush to Pay

Frantic political pressure having failed to stop demands of the government that they pay up $1,000,000 in back income taxes by November 8 or face indictment, 27 prominent Bostonians today rushed to square their accounts and elude possible imprisonment.

Under cover investigation by federal agents attendant efforts by those concerned to "hush" revelations were first revealed by the Boston Evening American some time ago.

Since then the agents have steadily pursued their probe, in the face of powerful pressure brought to bear against them, and have finally accumulated enough evidence to force indictments regardless of influence the accused might utilize.

EXPECT TO PAY

Confronted with the possibility of sentence to various federal penitentiaries in the event they do not pay up, the government's targets today were reported to have given up hope of escaping the huge levy.

Persons involved include a former high ranking official of the Boston police department, a former city official, four other prominent politicians and a well-known racketeer, still operating.

A special session of the federal grand jury will be held early in November if those accused of cheating the government have not paid.

PROMISE RESTITUTION

Some of the accused have already made a clean breast of their tax derelictions, it is understood, and have promised to pay.

What the attitude of the investigators will be hasn't been determined.

But a Washington agent has definitely stated, that those who say they had big incomes, undeclared, but haven't now, need expect no mercy.

Department of Justice agents have been working on the cases for two years.

They believe they have enough evidence to railroad some outstanding Bostonians to jail if they do not see the light and pay up.

WIRE PULLING FAILS

It is an open secret that for months the politicians involved have been pulling strings in an endeavor to avoid exposure and prosecution.

The failure of such methods is taken here as a pretty sure sign that the government intends to go ahead and get indictments and convictions unless demands are met.

Some of the men accused were engaged in legitimate enterprises during the period when they failed to declare their taxes.

Several were engaged in bootlegging.

'Hitler Scared Chamberlain'

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 4—The charge that Adolf Hitler scared Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain out of his wits was made in the House of Commons today as debate was resumed on the Munich four-power peace agreement.

Herbert Morrison, Laborite, assailed Chamberlain's policies as "submission to blackmail" which evenfually will lead the world to war.

"I honestly believe that in these negotiations with Hitler," Morrison said, "the prime minister had been frightened fo his life.

"His broadcast (outlining failure of the negotiations just before the Munich conference was called) was sheer funk. The 10,000,000-pound loan to Czechoslovakia is proof of the British government's sense of shame."

ARMED FORCE THREAT

Before Morrison spoke, the Labor party introduced and immediately tabled an amendment to the government's motion asking parliamentary approval of the Munich pact. The amendment demanded active support of the method of collective security and immediate convocation of a world conference.

The amendment was mildly worded to avoid stinging Chamberlain into calling an election or recommending dissolution of parliament in the bare possibility the House might carry it.

It will be moved by Arthur Greenwood, deputy labor leader, after the government's motion is moved tomorrow. In announcing the motion, Greenwood charged that Chamberlain's policies had led to "sacrifices by Czechoslovakia under the threat of armed force and to the humiliation of England."

Acclaim Hitler In Carlsbad

CARLSBAD, Oct. 4 (INS)—An immediate pledge that Carlsbad will soon be restored to the glory it knew as Europe's favorite spa was given by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler this afternoon when he led his victorious legion into this historic Bohemian "citadel of health."

Greeted again by cheering thousands, the Fuehrer announced plans for "immediate reconstruction" of the Sudetenland, transforming the entire area into one of the richest regions of the greater Reich.

The Fuehrer had long coveted Carlsbad, seeing in it a magnet once again to draw thousands of tourists to Germany.

The tall Los Angeles girl, who thrilled Boston audiences, is really the granddaughter, of the famed Steve Brodie, who back in 1886 made history with his never-to-be-forgotten 137-foot dive from Brooklyn bridge, it was revealed today.

Helen, who revealed her relationship here, is doing a lot better than her granddad for he got but $5 for his leap while she takes down $200 a week for diving from a 10-foot board.

"Naturally, I wasn't around when granddad jumped," she said today. "Neither was my mother; she was only two weeks old.

"He was supporting his wife and three children on $6 a week received as a newsboy when he took the long step which made him famous. After that he did all right and when he died at the age of 40, he left his mother $80,000, only one-third of his estate."

Miss Hayden was a swimmer before she married Sam Howard, the famous diver and coach. Her home is in Los Angeles, Calif.

Hungary Calls Vets to Colors

BUDAPEST, Oct. 4 (AP)—Numerous war veterans more than 45 years old had orders to report to the nearest army recruiting station today as the Hungarian government pressed its claims to Hungarian minority territories of Czechoslovakia.

The requisition of certain raw materials and orders prohibiting the export of metals, textiles, chemicals and leather were made known today, apparent indications that Hungary was preparing for all eventualities.

While the Foreign Office awaited Prague's answer to a note in which the immediate beginning of negotiations for return of Hungarian territories was asked, a cabinet meeting was called for this afternoon to decide what measures should be taken should Czechoslovakia refuse to comply.

ment after today's debate on the Munich four-power accord, was approved after two cabinet meetings, the second meeting with President Albert Lebrun.

The extent and nature of the powers to be demanded were not disclosed in the communique, which also declared the ministers had unanimously approved a declaration defending the Munich agreement.

The communique said the reason for Daladier's demands was "the exceptional circumstances through which the nation has just passed."

One cabinet member said the premier wanted decree powers to last until December 1.

Daladier came into office April 10 with decree powers which expired July 31.

Paul Marchandeau, finance minister, disclosed that the government would insist that Parliament vote it the decree powers, which would amount to a virtual temporary dictatorship, tonight, staking its life on the issue. The powers would be requested until December 13, he said.

Link Hub Consul, WPA Men to Italy Spy Plot

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—An Italian anti-Fascist told a congressional committee today that a branch of Mussolini's secret police was operating in this country "obviously under instructions of the Italian ambassador at Washington.

Girolano Valenti, chairman of the Italian anti-Fascist committee, declared also that "Italian consular officials and secret Fascist agents are spreading Fascist propaganda throughout the ranks of some 200 Italian-American organizations in the United States."

The witness added that "one of the sad notes" in Fascist activity is that "many of the Italian-Americans who are engaging in subversive activities are actually on relief rolls or employed by WPA and other government agencies."

NAMES BOSTON AGENT

The secret police — OVRA — are "directly linked to the Italian consular service" in this country, Valenti testified, in connecting the police organization also with the Washington embassy.

Valenti, a slight dark-haired New Yorker with a decided accent, gave his testimony to the Dies House committee on un-American activities.

"Four known agents of the OVRA who are operating in this country," Valenti said, "are the following:

"Captain Carlo Vinti, New York city; Pietro Pupino Carbonelli, New York city; Count Fachetti Giuglia, New York city; Ubaldo Guidi, Boston."

The Ovra in America, Valenti asserted, was a branch of a police organization operating in the mother country.

"This," he said, "is a spy organization which calls at the homes of American citizens of Italian descent and attempts to frighten them whenever they have participated in activities which do not conform to Fascist government policy."

NAMES BOSTON CONSUL

Valenti asserted that "Italian consular officials are addressing scores of semi-public gatherings and closed meetings in which they deliver speeches of pure Fascist propaganda, seeking to undermine the democratic form of government."

"The participation of Italian consuls is a matter of common knowledge among the American Italians," Valenti testified. "Among those who have repeatedly taken part in Fascist affairs in their respective areas are the following:

"Consul General Vecchiotti, New York City.

"Consul General Segre, Boston.

"Consul General F. Peravan, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Consul F. Decicco, New Haven, Ct.

"Consul Vannelli, Johnstown, Pa.

OBEY MUSSOLINI DECREE

"While enjoying diplomatic immunity," the witness continued, "these Italian consular officials are exerting influence over American citizens of Italian descent with the view of gaining more power and prestige for their native government."

Valenti declared that aim was to "keep alive" the tie between Italians who have become American citizens and "their former ruler."

"Thus," he said, "they are following the dictates of Mussolini, who states that Italians living abroad must be considered loyal sons of Italy even unto the seventh generation."

Anglo-Italian Talks Are Begun

ROME, Oct. 4 (AP)—Diplomatic sources disclosed today that overtures for the settlement of differences between Britain and Italy had begun in a meeting between the Earl of Perth, Britain's ambassador, and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Diplomats said the British ambassador had called on Ciano to "discuss the possibilities of further appeasement" in the relations of the two countries.

Jitterbugs Must Hurry if They'd Get in Contest

Interest mounts steadily in the New England championship jitterbug competitions which the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser are conducting in dance spots throughout New England.

The American, however, advises all jitterbugs concerned that only those teams that have won preliminary competitions in their home cities and towns can qualify for the Boston Garden finale on the night of October 24.

PRIZES FOR WINNERS

Any dance hall manager who wishes to hold an elimination test for the Garden finals can arrange it by contacting Director Joe Rubin at DEV 8080.

The New England titlists will receive a handsome award, a full week's professional stage engagement. Other suitable prizes are in store for second and third best teams.

Rudy Vallee and Benny Goodman will provide the music for the jitterbug finals during the course of that classic music battle "Straight vs. Swing."

HERE'S THE SCHEDULE

The preliminary schedule:

Wednesday — Commodore Ballroom, Lowell, Glenn Miller orchestra, loving cup to winner.

Wednesday — Mechanics Hall, Worcester, Del Brissette and Bob Richmond, orchestra; Jimmie Lee judging.

Wednesday—Roxbury Memorial High, College Club dance.

Thursday—Butterfly Ballroom, Springfield, Mal Hallett orchestra, loving cup to winner.

Friday—Morey Pearl's Tent, Weymouth, Tommy Reynolds' orchestra.

Saturday—Recreation Ballroom, Lawrence, Billy Bemis' orchestra.

Saturday—Cocoanut Grove, Manchester, N. H., Nye Mayhew orchestra.

Monday, October 10—Latin Quarter (Towne Club), Rudy Newman presents George Harris' Continental orchestra.

Get Swing Tickets Now

Tickets are now on sale at the Boston Garden box office for the Benny Goodman-Rudy Vallee "Swing vs. Straight" battle of music, scheduled for Monday, October 24.

Plenty of the finest seats are available. Admission tickets are priced at $1, reserved seats at $1.65 and choice box seats at $2.20. All entitle holders to full dancing privileges.

Please do not apply for seats or send money to the Boston Evening American.

SWINGIN' on down—Ruth Allen and Nick Stantley of Revere won preliminary contest at Steuben's to qualify them for finals at Garden on Oct. 24. Big jamboree, featuring Rudy Valee and Benny Goodman, is for benefit of American Christmas Basket Fund.

Jitterbugs a Menace? Radcliffe-M.I.T. Debate

The whole world seems to have gone swing and jitterbug mad.

Swing-mania has become the latest fad ever since the news was broken that Rudy Vallee, "Emperor of Melody," was to joust with Benny Goodman, "High Priest of Swing," in that great October 24, Boston Garden musical festival.

"Straight versus Swing."

Fashion artists have created new women's modes "Straight and Swing."

Sportswear manufacturers are styling new outfits with similar names. The jitterbug, the alligator and the rug-cutter is in his element.

And the latest development touched off by this epic Goodman vs. Vallee battle of music which is to be conducted under the auspices of the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund cause, is a debate between members of Radcliffe and Massachusetts Institute of Technology debating teams.

Championing the cause of swing, two Radcliffe jitterbugs will meet two conservative Tech rivals in an Oregon Style debate to be held at M. I. T. next Thursday evening.

First the fair Radcliffe gals will put on a real exhibition of swing dancing as rendered by expert jitterbugs. They want the new men at M. I. T. to understand what pleasant entertainment "Jive" music and entertainment can be.

Then the Radcliffe girls will uphold "Swing" in the colorful debate, with the Tech students arguing the affirmative of the question:

"Resolved, that swing music is detrimental to American Culture."

The "Oregon Style" debate permits cross examination of speakers. After the discussion, the boys and girls will get together for a taste of real hot swing and jiving in a jam session reception, when the jitterbugs expect to make those Tech fellows "Swing" high and low regardless of the debate outcome.

WHOLE TOWN TALKING

This Radcliffe-M. I. T. debate is nothing more than an oratorical preliminary to the musical debate to be put on at Boston Garden by Goodman and Vallee.

Tech will be there in hordes that night. So will Radcliffe's feminines. And Harvard, Boston College, Boston University, Tufts, Northeastern, Wellesley and every other New England college dancing crop will be there, too, truckin' to Benny Goodman's "Hepcats" or waltzing merrily to the tuneful harmony of Vallee's Connecticut Yankees.

The whole town's talking about "Swing or Straight."

Last night, at Steuben's Restaurant, Ruth Allen of Beach street and Nick Stantley of Winthrop avenue, both of Revere, took first honors in a preliminary "jitterbug" contest. Jack Fisher and his orchestra furnished the music.

2 Men Arrested In Fatal Roxbury Cafe Shooting

John C. "Jack" McCarthy, former boxer, and Daniel J. O'Neil, Jr., of Greenleaf street, Roxbury, were arrested in Brighton today on warrants charging them with murder of Joseph B. Gallagher, Roxbury cafe shooting victim.

Still sought today was a third man, allegedly named by Gallagher in a dying statement as the actual assailant.

According to police, Gallagher said McCarthy and O'Neil were present at the shooting.

Today's arrests were made by Police Captain John McCarthy and Sergeants Joseph Fallon and Raymond Monahan. They took McCarthy and O'Neil to headquarters for questioning, then to Roxbury Crossing station to be booked.

Gallagher was fatally wounded in a cafe in Station street, Roxbury, September 27. He died in City Hospital September 30.

20,000 N.E. Families Need Red Cross Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (INS) — Approximately 20,000 families will need Red Cross aid in adjusting themselves to new quarters and new lives as a result of the recent New England hurricane and flood, James L. Fieser, vice-chairman of the Red Cross, reported today to Chairman Norman H. Davis.

Fieser said that in his 25 years of disaster relief experience, the recent hurricane which swept New England and Long Island, N. Y., was the worst he ever beheld.

Lodge in 'Real Wages' Appeal

URGES "REAL WAGES"

In his keynote address, Senator Lodge declared the Republican party faces "the challenge of promoting real work for real wages, the obligation of making our relief system truly humane, and the sacred duty of providing security for our old."

Saltonstall, in his address, told the assembled delegates—

"It is our philosophy that we are the guardians of the rights of minorities as well as of majorities; that we uphold to the bitter end the rights of freedom of speech, of the press, of assembly, and of religious worship, and the right individually and collectively to advocate and work for any end consistent with the laws which the people adopt."

PLAN UNITED FRONT

Republican party factions will bury the hatchet to present a united front against the Democrats in the coming election campaign. Practically every speaker today voiced this pledge in one way or another.

The hand of friendship was extended to progressive Democrats and to all other independents and progressives.

The completely rejuvenated character of the new Massachusetts Republicanism was typified by the inclusion of a Townsendite plank in the state platform.

Particular emphasis was placed on the Republican party's promise of a full dinner pail for labor, and liberalized old age assistance.

Senator Lodge delivered the keynote address. He said in part:

"The times are far too serious for narrow partisanship. Since being in politics I have been willing to follow any leadership that was constructive leadership—because our only excuse for existence as Republicans is our ability to serve our fellow men.

WELCOMES CHEERS

"In this task we not only welcome—we invite—all those who have faith in the ability of the American people to solve their problems through honest common action.

"Once again we have a depression—or perhaps it is better to say that the depression of 1929 never really ended. In Massachusetts roughly one-fifth of our fellow citizens are receiving some form of relief.

"We therefore face the challenge of promoting real work for real wages for those able and willing to work. We confront the obligation of making our relief system a truly humane relief system for those unable to get work.

"We have the sacred duty of providing security for our old people on as generous a scale as the resources of our country and the ingenuity of our statesmen can devise."

HAIL SALTONSTALL

The junior Senator also was a speaker at the dinner in Mechanics building last night when 2000 men and women cheered at length Leverett Saltonstall, Republican candidate for governor, and the entire state ticket of his party.

Senator Lodge first praised all the defeated candidates who attended the dinner and pledged their support to the victors.

"We've got the program, we've got the candidates and we're going to have the victory," Lodge predicted.

"This dinner is vastly different from another one a few nights ago I might name, where all those who could speak for the New Deal were conspicuous by their absence."

Saltonstall was cheered at length until the throng was asked to halt so that radio time might not be wasted.

Jewry Fasts, Prays Tonight

Prayer and fasting will be the only activities of all pious Jews during the 24-hour period beginning at sundown tonight.

It's Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, and the most solemn holyday in the Jewish ritual.

Blowing of the Shofar, or ram's horn, ends the observance tomorrow, and, with it, the Jewish high holidays which began with Rosh Hashonah.

There will be special services and sermons in all Boston synagogues. The Rev. Harry Levi will conduct the service in Temple Israel in Commonwealth avenue, and preach a sermon entitled "If We Knew."

Tomorrow morning, there will be memorial services for the faithful in the synagogues, and Yom Kippur will end at sundown tomorrow night.

Mayor Slashes Pay in Woburn

also expected to battle the salary cut in court.

Rumors of a walkout of the three departments in protest against curtailment of their salaries were answered defiantly by ex-Marine Kane.

"They can walk out any time they feel like it," he warned, "but I'll take care of the situation!

"I've handled tougher jobs than that."

Woburn residents who supported the budget slash in the now-famous plebiscite assert that it was mainly responsible for a $7 tax decrease this year.

The mayor declared that if the school, fire and police departments defeat him in court the people "will know who to blame for a tax increase next year."

"The teachers and the others," he said, "refused to accept the cut authorized by the plebiscite, so I did the slashing.

"I thought the way to reduce expenses was to reduce expenses, so I did.

"If the departments don't like it they can take it up with the taxpayers. I merely followed the mandate of the people."

Finds Her Mother Drowned in Tub

Believed to have fainted and toppled into a filled bathtub, Mrs. Martha Maloney, 48, was drowned today in her home in Washington street, South End.

She was found by her daughter, Miss Pauline Maloney. Firemen with an inhalator worked for an hour, but in vain. The victim's husband, William Maloney, a Spanish war veteran, is an inmate of Chelsea Soldiers' Home.

120 Million Flood Aid, Curley Plan

Immediately upon his election as governor, James M. Curley will go to Washington and get $120,000,000 for flood control work in Massachusetts, he pledged last night in a speech at Athol.

Speaking before the Young Men's Democratic Club of that town, the former governor, nominated for a second term, told his audiences that the need for federal funds has not been pressed enough by Massachusetts.

In a recent speech before the resolutions committee of the Democratic state convention, Curley spoke at length on his plans for a flood control program and the convention adopted a comprehensive platform along the lines of his ideas.

DEVER, BUCKLEY THERE

Sharing the Athol platform with the former governor were Attorney General Paul A. Dever and State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley, candidate for re-election.

Dever and Buckley reviewed their administrations and predicted victory in the November 8 election for the entire Democratic ticket. Curley forecast victory in his own contest for governor by a plurality of 200,000.

The state-wide candidates were flanked at the meeting by a large gathering of aspirants for county and legislative seats, including Assistant Attorney-General John S. Derham of Uxbridge, candidate for district attorney of Worcester County, and H. Oscar Rocheleau, Jr., who appeared for his father's candidacy for re-election as sheriff of that county.

GUEST TONIGHT

Others who spoke were Owen D. Johnson, candidate for Congress; Thomas P. Flynn, who seeks a seat in the state Senate, and Joseph H. Higgins, candidate for representative.

Former Governor Curley will be the guest of honor tonight of the Bay State Colored Men's Democratic Club, Inc., 830 Tremont street.

N. E. Carries Low Storm Insurance

New Englanders figured the danger of hurricans was remote that comparatively few had hurricane insurance, the Standard, an insurance trade magazine, says today.

As a result, the Standard says, out of the $300,000,000 damage caused by the hurricane and flood insurance companies will have to pay only about $8,000,000. Flood coverage also was low, although of late years flood insurance has increased.

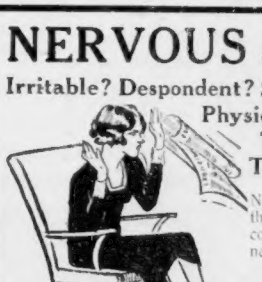
NERVOUS as a Cat?

Irritable? Despondent? Sleepless Nights? Physically Depressed? Tremble? Ache? There Is a Reason.



Nervousness is frequently the result of a depleted condition of the nerves and nervous system caused by inability to properly assimilate the natural phosphates in the food we eat.

Causes of NERVOUSNESS

Nervous debility may be the result of many causes — overwork, worry, mental strain and many other conditions which may interfere with the assimilation of phosphates. Vitality is generally low, making it even harder to absorb phosphates from everyday food.

Act Now—Before A Serious Condition May Develop

Alberty Phosphate Pellets are composed of the five essential phosphates in homeopathic amounts and have been a blessing to nervous, high strung, mentally and physically exhausted men and women, according to enthusiastic reports. In a few days their soothing, beneficial effect on the tissues of the nerves and brain are felt. For your absolute protection they contain no harmful drugs or stimulants and can be taken with utmost confidence and safety. The most delicate system will absorb and utilize them immediately with beneficial effect upon the face, tone and vigor of the nerve tissues.

4 Ousted UAW Chiefs Ordered Reinstated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (INS)—The CIO settled the savage quarrel within the leadership of the powerful United Automobile Workers of America today—at least on paper—by reinstating four expelled officers.

Vice-Presidents Richard T. Frankensteen, Ed Hall and Wyndham Mortimer and Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes were restored to their posts without censure, while President Homer Martin, their chief adversary and the man who brought about their ouster, remained at his.

Settlement of the months-long strife within the 400,000-strong UAW was announced in a formal and carefully written statement issued from the inner offices at CIO headquarters.

After the statement had been handed down, the UAW officers and the CIO mediators remained in conference.

President Martin sent out word that he may have something further to say later on in the day. But so far as could be learned the peace—or the armistice—had been agreed to by all.

Martin and the others had pledged themselves to stand by CIO arbitration.

The agreement was signed by CIO Vice Chairman Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman, CIO leader and textile union head, who acted as a special committee of arbitration.

Should Bartolini Die in the Chair?

YES!

By EDMUND R. DEWING
District Attorney of Norfolk and Prosecutor of Bartolini

I consider the Bartolini case just another case in the course of work of my office. I doubt if there ever was a case presented to a jury in Massachusetts where the guilt of a defendant was so conclusively proved.

E. R. Dewing

This included testimony of past actions of the defendant which showed him capable of committing such a crime—disposing of the body in such a horrible manner following the murder in the Asquith cottage.

There was also submitted by the Commonwealth in tying up its chain of evidence, the fact that parts of the body were wrapped with burlap bags bearing peculiar inscriptions and bags bearing similar markings were found where the defendant lived.

This was also true as wrappings of window shades. Similar ones were found at the defendant's premises. Wrappings of the head were also secured by string of peculiar construction.

Following laboratory experiments it was found that the string was manufactured in Philadelphia and was made to order for a concern occupying the same premises where the defendant lived. The only piece of similar string ever shipped into New England.

The most conclusive piece of evidense was the bare footprint of the defendant in human blood on the floor of the Asquith cottage. Two nationally-known experts testified as to identity of these prints. Such evidence has never been disputed.

He was convicted of first degree murder by a jury of 12 men.

The law states that the penalty is death in the electric chair.

OSCAR BARTOLINI

NO!

By GEORGE B. LOURIE
Former Assistant Attorney General and Counsel for Bartolini

The theory of the Commonwealth has been, from the start that Bartolini killed both Mrs. Asquith and John A. Lyons, the missing war veteran friend of the murdered woman.

G. B. Lourie

The theory of the defense is that Lyons committed the crime.

There is little little doubt under any theory that Lyons was present in the cottage at the time the crime was committed.

The Commonwealth emphasizes the various pieces of purely circumstantial evidence that seems to enmesh Bartolini. But they fail to explain other pieces of circumstantial evidence that tend to absolve Bartolini.

The Commonwealth has never explained the print of a palm of a human hand, admittedly not of Bartolini, found on the bathtub in the cottage where the government claims the body was dismembered and which was the only human print found in the tub itself.

The government contended that the crime was committed in broad daylight, but has failed to explain the presence of blood spots on the window shades which were obviously pulled down at the time of the commission of the crime.

The Commonwealth has failed to explain why the Sunday dinner had not been prepared and why the Saturday night dishes had not been cleaned, although they claim the crime was committed on Sunday after two p. m.

Now that all these doubts are increased, magnified by the testimony of Mrs. Weatherbee which tends to establish that Lyons was alive and in a dazed condition near the scene of the crime, after its commission, there should be no hesitation in granting a commutation of sentence.

Bilbo Has Bill To Boost Old Age Pensions to $60

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (INS)—A new old-age pension law, designed to raise pensions throughout the country to $60 a month, will be thrust before the next congress, Senator Theodore Bilbo (D) of Mississippi, said today. More than 1,600,000 persons would be affected.

In beginning the draft of a bill, Bilbo accepted a challenge by President Roosevelt to find ways of raising money by taxation to meet any increased cost of old-age pensions.

The plan being devised by Bilbo would boost the present cost of old-age grants to the federal government from $191,000,000 to $600,000,000 a year. States would be expected to appropriate a like amount.

The victory of Sherdan Downey on the "$30-every-Thursday" pension issue in the California senatorial primary, and the election of Republican candidates in Maine on the Townsend $200-a-month pension plan, shows that Congress must liberalize the Social Security Act, Bilbo asserted.

Under the Bilbo plan, the federal government's contribution to state old-age pensions would be raised from a maximum of 15 to $30 a month for each pensioner.

States would be forbidden to lower their present grants. They would receive the $30 if they met this condition. A drive then would be started, Bilbo said, to increase state contributions to $30 a month.

President Roosevelt, Bilbo said, has taen the position that he does not object to Congress increasing pensions provided Congress finances the increased cost.

Maps Campaign for Jewish Fund Drive

Reuben B. Gryzmish, newly appointed general chairman of the 1938-39 campaign of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies, today planned the annual drive for funds to support 16 welfare and health organizations, starting Oct. 23. During Yom Kippur services tomorow, appeals will be made for support of the campaign.

Louis E. Kirstein, president, announced the appointment of Gryzmish. Sidney Rabinovitz heads the advance gifts committee, and Jacob L. Wiseman is chairman of the trade organization.

Claim '38 Rail Wages Higher

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—The railroads, defending their demands for a 15 per cent wage cut, contended today the average pay of their workers during the first half of 1938 was the highest in 22 years.

J. Elmer Monroe, statistician for the Association of American Railroads, gave to President Roosevelt's fact-finding board a table showing average earnings of $918.83 for rail workers in the first six months of this year, or an annual rate of $1837.66.

This compared, Monroe said, with an average of $871.83 for the first six months of 1937. The figures showed, however, total payrolls for the first six months of this year were $126,183,570 under the $997,697,399 paid in wages in the first six months of 1937. This was accomplished by reducing the number of employes.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

The Secret That Cannot Be Told

A strange method of mind and body control, that leads to immense powers never before experienced, is announced by Edwin J. Dingle, well known explorer and geographer. It is said to bring about almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind. Many report improvement in health. Others acquire superb bodily strength, secure better positions, turn failure into success. Often, with surprising speed, talents, ability and a more magnetic personality are developed.

The method was found in remote and mysterious Tibet, formerly a forbidden country, rarely visited by outsiders, and often called the land of miracles in the astounding books written about it. Here, behind the highest mountains in the world, Mr. Dingle learned the extraordinary system he is now disclosing to the Western World.

He maintains that all of us are giants in strength and mind-power, capable of surprising feats, from the delay of old age to the prolonging of youth, and the achievement of dazzling business and professional success. No one ever has told the secret of such power—it cannot be told in words. But Mr. Dingle tells of remarkable methods that for three thousand years have been used by sages and seers, wise men of the East, to discover that secret for themselves—men whose achievements are little short of miraculous. These methods, though strange, are said to be remarkably instrumental in freeing the giant powers of mind within us.

A nine-thousand word treatise revealing the startling results of this system is now being offered by the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. 94, Los Angeles, Cal. They offer to send it free to any readers of this paper who quickly send their names and addresses. Readers are urged to write them promptly, as only a limited number of the free treatises have been printed.

Hunt Hub Flim-Flammers Who Got Porter's $5000

Three "flim-flammers," who flashed a $28,000 bankroll to lure their victim, were sought today on the complaint of Dennis Reilly, 58, of Leslie street, Dorchester, robbed of $5000.

Reilly, a hotel porter, told police he met two men on School street who convinced him he ought to play a little poker at a nearby hotel.

After losing the $47 he had with him, Reilly went to a bank and withdrew $5000 of his $7000 life-savings when a third man produced a roll of $28,000.

The men then took Reilly's $5000 to another room where the big game was to be set up. After a four-hour wait, the victim became suspicious and called police. The latter found that the trio left the hotel as soon as Reilly had passed over his money.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

SHORT SHORTS: Nostalgic of the good old days—two happenings happened in the night clubs . . . Jacques Renard, one of the best musicians of them all, returned to the Cocoanut Grove and all three chins were visible . . . For a time there, Jacques seemed to have merged one of his chins with his neck. But, no . . . At the Crawford House, John Steele, hardly less handsome than his post-war days, sang "A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody," one of the lasting Irving Berlin tunes which John sang first in a Ziegfeld Follies . . . It seldom appears in his biographies that John also "originated" a Berlin tune called "Lady of the Evening"—which he did, in the Music Box Revue of 1922 . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

And it has not appeared as yet that John will get a chance to make a real comeback on Broadway when Sam H. Harris and Irving Berlin collaborate on a Music Box Revue of 1939—which they are going to do . . .

The show would have been done this season as scheduled, but Berlin had to hasten to England to untangle a law suit . . . The suit concerned the playing of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" in the British Isles . . .

Ed Wynn, master of the Ritz-Carlton, threw a party in honor of Walter Huston and others of the cast of "Knickerbocker Holiday" in the French Room of the Wynn hotel this a. m. . . . Maxwell Anderson, author of the Huston vehicle, was among those present . . . So was Sheila Barrett and Sheldon Fairbanks, the dog-track boss.

Also present at the Mayfair was Bill McAuley, the modest horse-race handicapper . . . All that Clocker McAuley could lay credit to yesterday was the selection of five horses which won, including Royal Flight, which paid off at the generous rate of fifty-two and a half-to-one —or $107.56 for $2

In a brief speech, Handicapper Kling was quick to give credit to Handicapper McAuley . . . But modest Mr. McAuley discounted his extraordinary day at the races . . . Mournfully he said: "I don't think many of the racing fans played my super-longshot. They couldn't believe that a Scotchman would give a 50-to-1 shot away."

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 4—Errol Flynn heard yesterday for the first time that he had pneumonia when he was so critically ill last week. So remarkable has been his recovery that he is expected home today and Lili Damita will sail Thursday on the Queen Mary.

Errol's doctors have ordered him to rest for two weeks, after which he is to report at the Warner studio for "Dodge City."

Louella O. Parsons

Hal Wallis really tried to borrow Ronald Colman and Cary Grant for the role of the British munitions baron who goes Western. But when neither English accent was available he went back to the original idea of putting Flynn in the role post-poning The Sea Hawk until early next year.

Paulette Goddard has been called back to the Selznick lot for another test for Gone With the Wind. Melvyn Leroy says she is ex-pert in Dramatic School and the Selznick crowd likes her in The Young in Heart.

She was all set for Scarlett at one time, you know, we sort of actively saying that the part was hers. Then came the Negri Senator affair, and Paulette stepped out of the picture. Now she is in line for the part she was said to have the best chance. The Lady Loves deal is off, so Paulette won't need to go to the Warners when and if.

Grace Ayr will have to cut short her visit and Charlie Rogers is flying east in New York because Joe and George Burns and Gracie are a package act on Broadway. I'm sorry indeed that Evelyn Keyes' mother and family were distressed over an article in this column which included Evelyn in the new crop of glamour girls who have babies. Evelyn was confused with Ellen Drew, another newcomer on the Para lot. Evelyn is just a youngster and isn't married!

Her story is an interesting one. She came here from Atlanta, Georgia and was introduced to Jeannie McPherson who in turn presented her to Cecil De Mille. De Mille gave her a test and was so impressed with her possibilities as an actress he put her under personal contract. Her first lead was in "Sons of the Leg on."

Gala Burlesque At Old Howard

Lovely Mary Sunde is winning Old Howard fans just as she recently did Chicagoans at that city's popular Rialto Theater. She is the star of the Gypsy Rose Burlesquers. Featured with her is Marie Tatnay, dancing and different dancer.

A cast of 60 including Evelyn Taylor, Sam Hayner, Happy Hyatt, the Three Lunatrix, Paula, Charles Harris, Jane Dobbins and Len Manning and Mitzi, are responsible for this week's successful show.

On the Old Howard screen is being shown "The Life of Emile Zola."

Football Comedy for Keith

The recent wave of medicine-show politics has been hilariously ridiculed in the new 20th Century-Fox football comedy, "Hold That Co-Ed," which comes Thursday to the Keith Memorial Theater, with John Barrymore playing the role of a budget-bouncing, co-ed chasing governor, who manages to win his elections on the gridiron of the state university.

The companion attraction is RKO's "Breaking the Ice," with Bobby Breen, Charlie Ruggles and Dolores Costello. Preview showings will be given at 7 and 10 p.m.

The love of a widowed mother, for whom Breen runs from home in order to earn money, and exciting adventure, compose the mixture of entertainment values to be seen in "Breaking the Ice."

In this most ambitious picture in the career of the clever-year-old singing star of radio and screen, the youthful Bobby plays and adventurous lad—a two-fisted fighter who elbows his way into right spots, and emerges singing and triumphant.

In addition this most costly of all the Bobby Breen vehicles features as an additional attraction six-year-old Irene Dare, sensational baby ice-skater, in an ice fantasy budgeted at $100,000.

The supporting cast includes Charlie Ruggles and Dolores Costello.

Both pictures are $250,000 Movie Quiz Contest Pictures.

A new Walt Disney color cartoon "Donald's Nephew," and the latest issue of the Pathe News complete the program.

Lunt-Fontanne Triumph at Colonial

By GEORGE HOLLAND

When it's a Lunt and Fontanne, it's generally the best show in town. One of the picture-manufactories, we hope, will not resent this paraphrase of its slogan. It fits "Amphitryon" perfectly, as it fitted "Idiot's Delight," "Taming of the Shrew" (L and F version), "The Guardsman," and "Reunion in Vienna."

Mr Lunt and Miss Fontanne add to a fresh triumph in "Amphitryon 38," an indecorous irreligious and very clever version of an ancient legend from mythology. S N Behrman, one of the sharper wits waiting for the theater, wrote it from a French version by Hippolyte Jean Giraudoux.

The writing and acting combination practically was beyond the reading powers of a large first-night audience at the Colonial Theater last night.

As for your critic, he was not impressed to the extent that he can make a flat statement that both art and literature have been served in the presentation of "Amphitryon 38," a Theater Guild production, but "conceived and supervised by Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne."

We believe he found that Mr. Lunt was too prone to "milk" his scenes that Miss Fontanne is too gracious by nature to be aggressively humorous and that Mr. Behrman, he could reason to suspect when Dan is to wield his tiger-sized gags to a modern catechism, the lines are his own image. To make a story pertaining to mythology as funny.

By the end of the evening with the results obtained by Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne and Mr. Behrman in providing an entertaining evening in the theater, in making a real show of the play they are assisted by an orchestra playing tunes to make a mood offstage events and abroad, lighting and sound effects. Yes, it's a show all right. And as a show it must be marked A plus.

Oral tradition has it that Aeschylus and Sophocles, two of the Greek writers of tragedy, wrote the Amphitryon story first. Their names might have meant turned up Plautus, Moliere and John Dryden are credited with fashioned versions of the same story.

The story of legend was that Jupiter master of Olympus, had a roving eye for comely mortal females and that the eye turned at one time toward the castle suite of Alkmena, loyal and faithful wife of one Amphitryon, a dull sort of general.

With his son Mercury devising a campaign, Jupiter disguises as and sends Amphitryon off to fight while he can descend from the clouds to impersonate the absent warrior. It works.

But Mercury messes things up with a recall of the warbent Amphitryon, and a bulletin to the population that Jupiter is earth-bound to honor Alkmena with an evening's dalliance.

The possibilities of development from this promise are tremendous and they develop accordingly. One of the greatest acting scenes you will remember after you see "Amphitryon" and you will see it if for no other reason than to be able to match impressions with the Joneses, is the entrance of Jupiter in his god-dy wardrobe and the subsequent fencing with the devoted Alkmena as she fights to preserve the integrity of her marriage vows.

In this scene the stars have never enjoyed better material nor have they responded more perfectly.

Barry Thomson as "Amphitryon" gave a fine performance. Richard Whorf as "Mercury," continued the excellent work which won him high praise in New York, and Sydney Greenstreet, in a small (for him) part was superb. The scenery and costuming and mechanical effects were perfect.

It's a good show.

Sally Keith At Columbia

Sally Keith, who was a sensation at Manhattan's Leon and Eddie's, is proving to be the magical best seller at the Columbia, where she is the week's headliner. Assisting her on the bill are Eddie Vogel whose singing of "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" and Wagon Wheels" are delighting the customers.

Other weekend acts are the comedy scenes, "A Funny Aviator," "Enchanted Wine," "Give Me Those Flowers" and "Hotel Delirious," contributed by the comedians Harley Fay, Mac B. Kay and Harry Evinson.

BOOKED FOR METROPOLITAN. Basil Rathbone as King Louis XI of France in Frank Lloyd's "If I Were King," which comes to the Metropolitan screen on Columbus Day, October 12. Rathbone will visit Boston tomorrow.

Basil Rathbone Visits Boston Tomorrow

Basil Rathbone, well-known stage and screen star, is scheduled to visit Boston tomorrow in connection with the New England premiere of the newest picture, "If I Were King," which opens at the Metropolitan Theater on Wednesday, October 12.

The film produced and directed by the celebrated Frank Lloyd, features Rathbone in the role of Louis XI and stars Ronald Colman and Frances Dee.

Arriving in Boston Mr. Rathbone will make personal appearances at the Metropolitan where he will be guest of honor Wednesday morning at a breakfast to be attended by many film officials, including Louis Brenia, director of public relations, and in the afternoon he is to be guest at a special reception to local newspaper writers.

"If I Were King" has been acclaimed by critics who have viewed the production as one of Frank Lloyd's best pictures. It comes to the Metropolitan screen, Local film fans eagerly await its showing here.

THE SIDE FOR US

The Editor Says:—The current European situation gives the American people abundant food for thought. Now, more positively than ever before, Uncle Sam knows his place is on his OWN SIDE of the Atlantic.

On one day the European nations were ready to fly at one another's throats.

The next day they were cuddled in a cozy peace pact vowing eternal brotherhood.

That demonstration of the slim margin between peace and war in Europe is another most valuable lesson for the United States.

One pact is abrogated by fear of war, another is made in hope of peace and no pact in Europe is more than a scrap of paper when circumstances arise making its abrogation convenient.

One day the war threat, the next day the peace, and tomorrow, some tomorrow, the war threat again as surely as Europe exists.

Let us here in America continue to make pacts only with ourselves.

FORCEFUL PATRIOTISM, voiced by Msgr. Joseph M. Corrigan, rector of the Catholic University of America, keynote speaker at the Hartford, Conn., Confraternity of Christian Doctrine meeting, not only America's twenty million Catholics, but all persons desirous of keeping the United States safe from the hatreds, bigotries and persecutions that threaten to drag so much of the world back into barbarism.

"We shall oppose," declared Monsignor Corrigan, "the claims to loyalty and patriotism of those who, having lost God, have lost the reason for democracy and patriotism.

"We demand that our stand be heard for God in the individual, God in the home, God in business, God in leisure, God in government. We call upon all men and women of good will, non-Catholics as well as Catholics, to rally to this crusade."

The nation's need could not be more eloquently expressed. We have too long tolerated seditionists and subversionists who wear the mask of democracy covertly to set up within our borders governmental systems patterned after Hitler Nazism or Stalin Communism.

It is time we tore the false faces off these enemies, exposed them and outlawed them.

BISHOP LAWRENCE will find Wednesday one of the happiest days of his long and useful life. The beloved Episcopal leader will observe the fortieth anniversary of his elevation to his high office. An appropriate, a thousand clergy and lay members of his diocese will gather in his honor.

It remains for persons to write all the good things we would like to say about Bishop Lawrence. It would require an encyclopedia to list his charitable works. And to review all that he has done for the betterment of church, education and society, one would have to have a book as formidable as the telephone directory.

We salute you, Bishop Lawrence, true Christian, real American, on your day and wish you well.

HIT-RUN ACCIDENTS, alarmingly increasing on Massachusetts highways, are a challenge to all agencies charged with enforcement of motor vehicle safety laws.

When a motorist speeds away after he has struck and injured another motorist or pedestrian, neither time, effort nor expense should be spared until the culprit is caught.

The hit-run offense is a MAJOR and DANGEROUS crime, and it ought to be generally regarded as such.

The Human Side of the News

Gambling Urge Grips Millions

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright 1938 by King Features Syndicate, Inc., in the United States and Great Britain.)

THIS DEPARTMENT was disappointed in noting that while California legalizes draw poker, it apparently leaves unsanctioned or, at any rate not adjudicated, such interesting variants as stud and spit-in-the-ocean.

Unless I am mistaken, the ruling of the California Attorney General was hastily arrived at and may cause endless confusion and possibly grave injustice.

There is a hint of class legislation and legal discrimination in singling out draw poker for this legal annointing to the total disregard of the other forms. Draw poker is legally qualified on the grounds that it is a "game of skill." Stud addicts may be an oppressed minority, but they are human and they have their rights.

Certainly, stud is just as much a game of skill as draw poker.

WHILE POKER, like the cocktail, is generally supposed to be an American institution, Blackstone knew all about it. In his time, the English called it "brag," which has an obvious implication of "bluff." They also called it "post and pair." It had been derived from a Irish military game called "primero."

Old Dead-pan Blackstone when he was a professor at Oxford was against this rather unappropriate game of "brag," and took great pains to work in a crack against it whenever he had a chance. He interpreted the "common law" as "not enforcing a gambling contract."

Probably the California ruling won't run afoul of that. Allowing people to gamble is one thing and adjudicating or compelling payment of their gambling debts is another.

The Puritan blue laws literally choked the penal code and all succeeding generations could do about it was to forget them. Just writing them off, like lifting the barrier against draw poker, would seem simple and adequate, but that has its defects, too.

There has been a legalizing of gambling, by subtle or overt measures, in the principal resort areas of the country, California, Florida and New England. The pari mutuels are shoving ahead everywhere, bingo flourishes at church bazaars and theaters, policy is untroubled by recent animadversions against it, the Irish Sweepstakes takes millions from the country every year, the drive for a national lottery gathers strength, and Wall Street brokers, finding the market dull, are turning to the race tracks or to betting on fly-swatting scores.

AND California, legalizing draw poker, is in the throes of a $30-every-Thursday fantasy which would remove all element of chance from the work-a-day business of keeping alive.

Staunch and staid New England Republican tributes of the people, exemplars of bed-rock finance and all the simple virtues of thrift and industry, get themselves nominated on a Townsend platform. In Oregon, the Townsend drive was so strong that the supposedly hard-headed opposition had to cook up a competing formula, outpromising the Townsendites.

Pa Favored Lash For Wife-Beaters

OUR OLD MAN was always mighty tolerant toward erring mortals. He used to say that in the final accounting, there might be a lot of charges filed against him but that you could bet your boots no one would be able to say he had ever cast the first or last stone.

Our old man argued that very rarely did a sinner deliberately set out to sin. He said that in 99 cases out of a hundred it was largely due to accident, or to circumstances over which the sinner had no control. He said that the hundredth case was likely due to defective mentality or lack of proper teaching or to wretched environment.

Our old man thought it was all wrong to look people upon possess for a first sin and humiliate and degrade them for the rest of their lives except when they had done something very bad, like deeds of violence. He said that a good strong talking to without publicity would probably save many a sinner if you nailed him on his first sin, and moreover would save the taxpayers millions of dollars in prison upkeep.

OUR OLD MAN strongly favored a revival of the pillory and the stocks of Puritanical days as punishment for miscreants who abused their wives or children. Those were engines of Ye Olden Time in which scallawags were locked and exposed to public scorn.

There was one fellow back in our old home town who made a regular practice of beating his wife, a frail little thing who was always sick, and our old man said he would give anything to see that fellow confined in a pillory. He said he would go around at regular intervals and stick his finger in the fellow's eye.

Somebody asked our old man why he did not stick his finger in the fellow's eyes anyway and our old man answered quite reasonably that the fellow was too big.

Certainly our old man would have strongly endorsed Delaware's whipping post for wife beaters, and he would most certainly have liked to see cataloged as a whipping post offense the neglect of little children.

MOREOVER, our old man did not believe in capital punishment. He said he had once favored it but after living a long time he had not noticed that it tended to reduce the type of crime punishable by death. He said he thought a man or woman who committed premeditated murder got more punishment just by being compelled to live with their conscience than if you knocked them off.

He said the only doubt in his mind as to the advisability of capital punishment was when it came to a crime like murder by slow poisoning. We had a case of that nature out West and our old man said he was inclined to doubt that a person who could contemplate such a crime had a conscience. He said that maybe it might be best to take a low-down criminal like that out and drop them off a cliff without any noise about it.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

A "BACK - TO - THE - LAND" MOVEMENT– BACKED BY UNCLE SAM FOR THOSE ON RELIEF . . . do YOU think it would work?

Recently, young KENNETH MEAD of ANN ARBOR, MICH., tossed the suggestion into the arena . . . started a free-for-all that beats all records. Consequence– we've been cramming every available inch of space with splendid come-backs. And here come some more.

First, an answer to KENNETH - AND AN ARRAIGNMENT OF ALL YOUNG AMERICA– by youthful MRS. L. B. SAWYER of POMPEY, N. Y.

DEAR MISS ROBINSON

If the young people of today could face monotony, a "Back to the Land" movement might be a solution of Young America's unemployment problems. BUT PERSONALLY I DON'T THINK THE YOUNGER PEOPLE CAN TAKE IT.

When I was 16 I married a farmer. We had to get up while it was a cold clock on a cold range. We got up at 6 a. m. and went back to bed at 9 p. m. too tired for any entertainment.

I ate potatoes three times a day. I could stand to eat the first hog I ever killed, but, Lordy, I'm sick of pork by the time spring rolls around. In the city I had meat, vegetables, fruit and could go out to find work. There I was on call from 5 a. m. to 9 p. m. and got $5 a week. WE WERE MORE UNHAPPY IN THE CITY THAN WE HAD EVER BEEN IN THE COUNTRY.

Soon we were tired of the farm. I've discovered that land and stock aren't yours until you've paid for them. That's what life is for, to get what we want–health, happiness, and the right to be worthy of the name AMERICAN.

IF YOUTH HAS THE COURAGE, AMBITION AND GUMPTION TO TAKE IT, THE GOOD EARTH COULD HEAL AND WOULD HELP US.

FLOOR BUT NOT BROKEN. Recently, 17-year DONNA MAE MUNDELL of DENVER, COLO. has written an IMMORTAL SLOGAN FOR MODERN AMERICA. I'm praying that someone somewhere in this great land might answer this cry for help!

DEAR MISS ROBINSON

You wonder if the girls would like Kenneth. He's one female you could cheerfully exchange a place in city for sixteen hours' dancing on a farm!

BACK TO THE FARM! THOSE WORDS ARE LIKE A PRAYER TO THIS FAMILY. WE'VE DREAMED AND SCHEMED, BUT IN 14 YEARS OF CITY UPS AND-DOWNS, MOM AND DAD ARE BROKE NOT BROKEN.

If we owned not 160 acres, a horse and a cow, we'd skimp and save some hens and a few pigs. We don't expect miracles. We are not paupers. We'd pay every cent back if we were given a chance.

Our Light Lights would be the beautiful stars. Our strong hands would be doing God's work. Pride in the "abundant harvest" would be our thanks.

LIFE on the farm is a fine idea a plan for youth to ponder over.

After all, God's first creation was a garden– a small farm. If He thought such a farm ideal for the first people on earth, I see no reason why it still isn't true.

Autograph-Hunting Marys Replace Shubert Theater Stage-Door Johnnies

Girl About Town

by Marjorie McBride

IN THE OLD days, Stage-Door Johnnies were a recognized institution in the theatrical world. They've been replaced by autograph hunters.

Youngsters armed books tucked under their arms hurry from classes to waylay actors emerging after the matinee or arrive hours before the evening performance to buttonhole their stars during the intermission.

Nor are all of the autograph fans juveniles. In the case of the Shubert Theater's star, Bert Lahr, grown men were seen waiting patiently for an hour or two for members with the cast.

This has been standing for nearly an hour to collect a signature of Walter Huston leading lady of the new hit stage play now in Kaufman-Hart brewery at the Shubert.

Huston is noted for his courtesy to autograph hunters. He signed their books right and left, shook hands with a few admirers, beamed and waved to them all.

Not all of the stars are so gracious. Many of them consider autograph hunters a nuisance and the bane of their careers!

SOCIETY GIRLS are going in for those new jitterbug steps, too. Among the fancier dancers in the post-debutante set are Miss Nancy Cassels, Miss Marie Palmer, Miss Dorothy Preston, Miss Eleanor Van Kleeck and Miss Charlotte Rantoul. They are all expert at shagging.

Miss Cynthia Sortwell tail of this season's rating tops among the debutante swingsters.

FEELING THE SUMMER got the jitters. I stifled the urge for a plate of oysters after looking at a calendar and finding no R in the name of the month. It's an old superstition, we don't mean a thing, according to the New England Museum of Natural History.

The Boston institution has just taken the matter scientifically to bed. They have a point there because they are in spawning condition.

The real season begins in September, and Dr. Charles H. Blake, curator of mollusks, predicts a good supply this year.

Oyster fishing started in New England in 1770 and has grown into an annual $1,500,000 industry here.

ALL SORTS of new fall colors are coming into vogue. Lest you become confused by some of the names: "teal" is a bluish-green . . . cyclamen is a luscious pink . . . Furthermore the AAA is or [illegible] a very powerful political [illegible] with agents and [illegible] every rural district.

ALL THIS is of political importance. One of the four pillars of The New Deal strength is the farmer, the other three being Negroes, the unemployed and the South. No thoughtful person will want to see Mr. Wallace's efforts fail. The gross unbalance of farm prices was a natural cause of our [illegible] collapse. We still have a [illegible] world situation. It [illegible] which our system [illegible] in addition a colossal [illegible].

SUCH CRITICISM of Mr. Wallace's policies as has appeared in [illegible] has been of detail and method rather than of the purpose, which is to secure economic [illegible] for agriculture.

My argument with Mr. Wallace is only that he wants to force these prices to parity with industrial prices by creating a real or artificial restriction of supply and production with which I think is both impossible and unwise.

If we [illegible] have no just complaint about dollar wheat or 12-cent cotton or 75-cent corn or whatever a fair price would be. Given it seems to me that it would be far better to let actual prices and production be free of all restrictions and subsidize the farmer the difference between the free market price and parity by a tax on what we all can consume in this country.

On a simpler and more direct method of a farm price subsidy to maintain agriculture the Republicans could take their farm State stronghold back from the Third New Deal tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew N. Winslow, Mrs. Charles Tappan and Mary Foote were among the many famous faces we [illegible] observed as Theater Guild [illegible] took their seats at the opening . . . Subscribing to the Theater Guild has become such a habit in social circles that it was interesting to note how many of the regulars at first nighters were in their accustomed seats . . .

Jason Merrill and his mother, Mrs. Ben P. P. Moseley, who are staying at their country estate on Ipswich for the autumn painting season, came in town for the occasion . . . while from the South Shore were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Prouty and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hastings who stopped for a brief chat with Sheila Barrett, who was the star in one of the summer productions of the South Shore Players . . . Miss Barrett, well-known impersonator, wore a picturesque gown of heliotrope silk with a bodice of chartreuse . . . Mrs. Charles Codman was a vivid figure in tangerine lace with a matching velvet bolero and Mrs. Charles Codens wore a filmy black lace enhanced by a deep hem and bodice of embroidered white cotton . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cutler, Jr. were among the young marrieds in the audience as were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walton who discussed wedding plans during intermission with Evelyn Weatherby and her fiance, Dr. Charles Vallendar, Jr., principals in a forthcoming November wedding of great interest to members of the younger set . . . Other first nighters included Sally and Sister Sears, Mrs. William Brace Pratt, Mrs. Charles French, Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs, Mary Emery and Mrs. Irving Badger . . .

DIANA BIRD, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Jr., chatted with Richard M. Devens as they watched the first beagle meet of the season at the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Burrage, Jr., in Ipswich. Diana's saucy wire-haired terrier was also an interested spectator as he watched his canine relatives put on an exciting show.

Dorchester Girl to Wed

At a quiet ceremony on Saturday at four o'clock in St. William's Church in Dorchester, Ruth Damroth will become the bride of Arthur Henderson.

Florence Damroth will be her sister's only attendant and Bertram Dacey of Dorchester will be best man. A reception will follow at Myles Standish Hotel, with the couple departing immediately for Virginia Beach and a motor trip south.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Damroth is a recent graduate of Girls High School and is active in its alumnae affairs. Mr. Henderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Henderson of Dorchester.

Acquire New Home In Philadelphia

Mr. and Mrs. William Massey Phillips (Mary Bird), who spent last winter in Cambridge following their marriage on Armistice Day, have moved to Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, where the bridegroom has entered the practice of law.

Mrs. Phillips is the daughter of Mrs. Frances W. Bird of East Walpole, and granddaughter of Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird.

Bellarmine Lectures Start Late This Month

Under the capable [illegible] Alice Elizabeth Barry of Jamaica Plain, Bellarmine Academy will launch on October 26 a series of twenty lectures on current subjects of religion, economics and international politics. Wednesday mornings, at the Commonwealth Country Club, Chestnut Hill.

The first speaker will be Rev. Louis Sullivan, S. J., who will discuss "Harvard Influence on Current Religious Thought." The same topic will be treated in detail at the following meeting, November 2.

"The Jesuit Theater of the Post Renaissance" is the topic of the talk on November 9, when Rev. John L. Bonn, S. J., will be guest speaker. At a return engagement on November 16, his talk will be "The Modern Catholic Theater of the Renaissance."

Rev. Edward L. Murphy, S. J., will be guest speaker at the next two lectures, November 30 and December 7, with his talks on "The Panic in Protestantism."

Honorary president of the group is Mrs. Joseph H. Shortell, who founded the organization several seasons ago to benefit local missionary work. Assisting her as executive officers are Mrs. Leon W. Walsh of Belmont, Mrs. H. K. Bagle of West Newton, Mrs. L. Nawn of Brookline, Mrs. James White of Cambridge, and Mrs. Hector Gal.

Serving as [illegible] of the [illegible] Committee are Mrs. James Downing, Mrs. Oscar A. Vass, Mrs. Mary Bullock, Miss Constance Sheehy, Miss Dorothy [illegible], Mrs. Harry Clarke and Mrs. Dennis J. Kelley.

Bridge to Aid Convent

Under auspices of the Guild of the Blessed Sacrament, the annual fall bridge and whist party will be held next Monday evening at the Blessed Sacrament Convent, Vernon street, Roxbury.

The missionary work of the nuns will benefit from the undertaking being directed by Mrs. Katherine Dougherty and Mrs. Frederick Robertie. Also serving on the committee are the guild's officers, Mrs. Thomas Donovan, Florence Akerley, Marie Stewart and Marion Mahoney.

A varied program has been planned by the group in aid of its work. Under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Donovan, president, weekly bridges have been resumed at the club on Thursday evenings.

The regular meeting of the group will take place Sunday afternoon at 3:30. Rev. Richard J. Cushing, director of the Propagation of the Faith, will be the speaker. Musical program will be directed by Mary Kent, organist of the Gate of Heaven Church, South Boston.

Return From Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher Nesmith, Jr. (Pauline Shaw Lamb), have returned from their honeymoon trip to New York, and are settled at 122 Brattle street, Cambridge. The marriage of the couple, on September 16, in Concord, N. H., was a complete surprise to Boston social circles, for there had been no announcement of their engagement.

The bride is the daughter of Louis Agassi Shaw of Boston, and was formerly the wife of Lieut. Vincent Lamb.

ENTERTAINS MOTHER

Commander and Mrs. Stuart S. Brown of Manchester are entertaining the latter's mother, Mrs. Robert Floyd Bull of Washington, D. C., and Louisville.

GERTRUDE DRISCOLL of Dorchester is busy with plans for the Preparvulic Club fashion show a week from Saturday in the roof ballroom of the Parker House. The club's charity work will benefit from the parade of fur styles.

CHAPTER 41

The Canadian Pacific turned my steamship passage into railroad fare and I turned back to Chicago. Through the months between February and June confusion piled on confusion, for no one knew what had really happened to Bert.

Consular officials in Shanghai, doctors, the Naval Intelligence, the State Department at Washington, all conducted investigations.

The final answer meant nothing for it was "death from unknown causes" and the findings of the autopsy only deepened the mystery.

The chemists had isolated a minute quantity of a white, chrystalline substance which they were unable to identify. Their verdict read "Death due to causes unknown."

From all over the world came messages. Phil Payne my old city editor in New York offered sympathy and help.

I planned to accept Phil's offer of a job with him any time you want it" on the new tabloid the Mirror as soon as I could. Bert's ashes were coming home to Chicago to rest beside his father's in the city of his birth.

Chicago was yesterday. I waited tomorrow. For now I had a philosophy which I formulated to sustain me through a difficult period of readjustment. A philosophy which was founded on a premise that anything so pointless and futile and wasteful as the death of a young husband and father with everything to live for must in the deepest one have a meaning which may some way reveal.

So I began straining my eyes toward tomorrow and the new job waiting for me whenever I chose to go.

SOLACE IN WORK

And I went to New York and pursued into the morning of perfecting, interesting and being the last half of the jazz decade.

Almost at once I was in the midst of the Hauptmann-Lindbergh baby kidnaping trial trying to unravel the tangled skeins of human passion in the story of a middle-aged doctor's affection for a beautiful married woman which carried them both to destruction in Dr. Condon's face and swept his rich and socially prominent wife and her family into the confusion of scandal.

"GET GOING!"

Day after day Phil Payne figured out some new angle to a story which was the despair of reporters and writers for it was most always, which fell into a certain routine and must be remolded afresh each day for a new thrust to keep public interest alive. Then one had a portfolio of fascinating angles and characters each one important enough to stand alone.

Even that didn't satisfy Payne who wanted to dig up leads which all the other papers would have overlooked. Married several times, he crooked his finger and beckoned me over one morning.

"I want you to find me a woman who's been deaf from birth," he said. "One who's never heard a single sound or word and who's been up in Westchester for her well pay her well for talking.

Within 48 hours I had rounded up a good-looking young woman who had been born deaf, and had never learned to talk either. She was the most expert lip reader I've ever encountered.

"Take her out to the trial tomorrow," Phil said. "I've got special seats in the press row for you."

"What's it all about?" I asked.

"Well, Mrs. Hall has been doing a lot of whispering and looking worried these last few days. Conferences with her brothers. With her lawyers. I've got a hunch if we can find out what she is saying about we'll have a few new leads."

It never occurred to Phil that lip reading in court wasn't cricket. He was a newspaperman.

But Phil's luck was not in on this deal. Mrs. Hall and her brothers had changed their places and my lip reader, we discovered to our chagrin could only read lips in a straight line not around a curve. She came back to the Mirror office which had been set up in a rented house in the village. The place was equipped with telephones, typewriters, telegraph instruments, beds, a cook and all the rest. She wept bitterly, for her notes made no sense at all. Phil accepted defeat with the utmost grace, it was all part of the game.

"TRAINED SEALS"

He never hated to win every hand.

It was in the Snyder-Gray case which broke soon after the the Hall-Mills that Phil conferred on me the title of "Keeper of the Trained Seals."

In newspaper parlance a "trained seal" is a celebrity who attends a trial, prize fight or other big event and writes a story under his name for a newspaper.

Nobody wanted to write about Ruth. They all wanted to write about Judd Gray who had met this restless, diversion-seeking woman, bored with her steady-going husband and her humdrum suburban life in a restaurant pick-up.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce had sent her Isotta-Fraschini for me and presented me with a corsage of giant gardenias for our appearance. Peggy provided almost as much news for the feature writers on her day in court as the trial itself.

She wore a black tailleur over furs—they were as rare then as chinchillas are today—and, in the words of that demon wordjuggler, Damon Runyon, "a diamond as big as an alligator pear and a couple of quarts of pearls."

After Peggy had absorbed the court atmosphere, discovered who the principals were and what it was all about we drove back to Peggy's house in the East Sixties to the strains of Jack Hylton's band.

It was a night of nights. Champagne cocktails and caviar. The excitement of the day. The difficulty of the testimony. We were working on the case of The Latter I guessed for Judd Gray was to pass on Ruth to Peggy. Peggy had lots of wardrobe for the trial and she wanted her friend to come together to see it on the piece.

A GRAND ENTRANCE

I stayed with Peggy until the last possible minute. At 2 o'clock that I was forced I didn't a single idea and I had to get down to the story and I had a deadline.

Peggy, expert on the $65 perfume on the 3rd I was my departure shouting Downtown in the Isotta.

My presence was announced to the city room long before I reached it. The entire copy desk was at ease noses—there was nothing. The newsprint battery was stilled.

I came in my eyes bright, a sally smile on my face, my cheeks flushed.

"Look, Pa," I said clapping his hand to his head. "Look at her! And she's got a story!"

Smith—and the head of the copy desk—looked lonely.

Sixty-five dollars a bottle, boys. I reported. Hey, hey! A week's salary for slaves like us!

I had given the entire copy desk a shock and was now making the rounds of the rewrite battery. Payne began to frown and fling me certain curse-up with some spirit of amount.

"Drop that, you hyp," he said. "I don't know what's got of Peggy Joyce that's she got a heart to dig up a perfume."

They sat me at a typewriter and with a fine flair of disdainfulness that when I began to hit the keys and came typing. Not until much later did I realize with hot blushes that the entire office had watching my big, private excitement for a sensation.

Peggy's story was a success, and I was delighted.

Japan and Its People

By F. W. KELLOGG
Retired Newspaper Publisher and World Traveler

To most people in the United States, it would seem very strange to think that Japan is really one of the best places in the world for complete rest and recreation.

The attitude of the Japanese people towards the United States is almost completely misunderstood in this country.

This is the result of the agitation during the past 40 years which has linked Japanese and Chinese together in such a manner that the people in the United States think of them practically the same race of people, comprising with Korea what we call the "yellow" races.

The truth of the matter is that Chinese and Japanese are radically different and are almost totally dissimilar.

The feeling in Japan toward the United States is one of extreme friendship and the relations of the people of the United States and are proud of our friendship with America.

EDUCATED PEOPLE

On account of their culture and education they are justly familiar with the historical contacts that have taken place between the United States and Japan.

The Japanese are an educated people and are well acquainted with people in the United States to learn that the percentage of their literacy as compared with the population is higher than any civilization in the world.

Taking the age that is usually accepted as the beginning for education, 99.75 per cent of the Japanese can read and write. With the exception of the people of the Netherlands who have a percentage of 99.8 the Japanese have the highest percentage of any people in the world.

The Chinese people have the lowest world percentage 3 per cent. In the United States it is practically 95 per cent.

On July 3, 1853 Commodore Perry, with the navy's black ships, came with home to Japan a proposal to open trade with that country. He submitted his proposals to the Japanese government, and was asked to come again the next year for an answer.

Prior to that time the ports of Japan were closed to all nations. Their trade was extremely limited, practically nothing, and what little trade they had was almost entirely with China.

NEGOTIATES TREATY

Early in 1854 Commodore Perry returned to Japan three months before he was expected and with the greatest diplomacy conquered Japan to enter into a commercial treaty based on friendship and amity leaving Japan to offer its own proposals in the form tendered by Commodore Perry.

Subsequently at an early date, the Japanese signed similar treaties with England, Russia and Holland.

With gratitude the Japanese people have treasured for the making of the American treaty in 1854 was the beginning of western civilization in that country.

From that time they have steadily increased the national affection for the people of the United States, and have honored Commodore Perry, expressing their gratitude by erecting memorials in many parts of Japan.

These memorials recite the visit of Perry to Japan and express the grateful appreciation of that nation to the United States. This esteem has steadily increased and today Commodore Perry is regarded as one of the world's greatest heroes, and benefactors throughout Japan.

HONORED YEARLY

There is actually a day set aside in Japan which is celebrated in recognition of the tremendous effect that Perry's visit had on Japan and its people.

I visited Japan first in 1927, and was tremendously impressed by the kindly courtesy and the friendship that was openly expressed by the Japanese for the people of the United States.

Much of my previous impressions of Japan were formed by reports and an estimate of the Japanese character largely, formed from opinions of naval officers who had been stationed in the Far East and by my acquaintance with newspaper publishers and editors in Japan and China.

It was the newspaper publishers and correspondents of Shanghai and Tokio who first induced me to study the history of China and Japan and the tremendous influence of the Japanese nation on the affairs of the world.

IN THE

STOCK MARKET

The stock market sauntered about aimlessly today after making up a fair part of early losses. Volume was small.

10-11—The opening took place on a quiet note. Prices were on the offside but only by fractions. A number of issues held unchanged. Light profit-taking was reported. It was mostly for professional and quick turn accounts. Standard of Indiana helped the trend with a gain of one. The ticker tape was often at a standstill. Lower rate to attend a point. Kennecott was heavy after getting down. Ex. Foreign currencies were unds, moderate pressure and ripper in dollar terms. Home political disturbances were blamed. Volume 240,000 shares.

11-12 The market was just creeping along the course of today. It was not a market to do much and seemed inclined to keep very hard. Here and there a price stiffened and mild rallies were chipped dear. A few stocks such as Sperry found enough of a following to get new highs for the year. Aircraft's price worked on small gains. Railroad motion shares were in moderate demand and moved up a bit. Metals and steels lacked pep and were inside a shade lower. Utilities were quiet.

12-1 New lead spurt a short lasted up, but the lack of sustained interest operated against marked gains. Phillip Morris was the usual lively sniff and scored ahead more than 2. U. S. Smelting lifted more than one of the leaders. But all the while a small pair was almost immediately surrendered. The market was down as much as one and as about the close, actually in spots. Other markets were just about as unexciting. Transfers reached the 1,000,000 share mark.

• • •

1-2—Westinghouse, steel and rubber literally wrote chapter with the slightest opposition from sellers. Aircrafts lost altitude. Some two points or more going showed. But they were exceptions. The market actually was more firm and lower to better than two highs. An absence of new selling pressure was gathered from the fact minus signs were in the majority. There was little to stir the tape and less to write back. Transactions totaled 520,000 shares.

Comparisons Of Trade Lines False

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—Unquestionably there has been some slowing up in business activity during the past few weeks. Careful consideration of the situation and its causes however shows that the trend is not serious nor likely to continue.

For one thing, it is hard to understand how grown persons can keep on talking about comparisons with a year ago, as if these threw any light on the current trend.

Last year at this time, the business curve was falling sharply. That is no more reason for saying that business is now 'gaining' than it has been for being "disappointed" because hitherto business has been so far below a year ago.

The activities of a year ago have nothing to do with what business is doing now.

Considering conditions as they are now we should first make due allowance for the effect of the war scare upon business. This has been real and serious.

The decline in the stock market affected business sentiment, and also the possibility of raising new capital by selling securities. More than that, the war threat had a direct effect upon business planning, since it caused many uncertainties.

It threatened to drag us in and to fasten a dictatorship upon us. Many merchants and industrialists have had difficulty in getting imported supplies, and fluctuating exchange rates have had a most disturbing effect.

Then too, there have been serious strikes, some of which have not yet been settled.

The disastrous hurricane and floods along the Atlantic coast have worked great havoc, and practically suspended business in considerable areas.

Finally, it is to be remembered that the New Deal, with its suspicion of business and its tendency to unsound monetary and other experiments, is still in power at Washington.

Stock Markets Refute Popular Propaganda

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—The explosive upturn in the stock markets of the world after the four power pact registered the widespread opinion that peace is more bullish than war.

This, however, hardly confutes the propaganda that profit seeking business men are promoters of war. There is a growing recognition that modern war exhausts victors and vanquished alike, causes destructive values in many financial countries.

Before the four power pact prices of New York at the latter part closed creatively firmer than the European bourses, reflecting the obvious fact that the destruction of values would be less severe in countries far removed from the scene of conflict.

DIDN'T WANT WAR

If there had been war orders, industries would have been busy for a temporary boom, if peace hurt many did not interfere. However, even the management of "war baby" enterprises did not look forward eagerly to war orders.

A spokesman for one of the "war babies" of the last war told me that his company had no reason for European war orders. The best present had grave doubts as to the means by which payment could be made by European buyers.

He stressed the long term disadvantages of turning over the company plants chiefly to military orders in the last war. He said that stoppage of normal production for regular customers had a bad effect, turned them over to competitors, and after the war some of the customers could not be regained.

Another influence was the growing popular sentiment for levying, in special taxes all available profits incidental to filling orders for war purposes.

BUSINESS ARTIFICIAL

War business is artificial one way business, whereas production and distribution for peace is based on an exchange of goods for goods and the circulation of business can continue indefinitely as long as natural resources and manpower are available.

The full economic potential of peace will not be achieved however, if human resources continue to be wasted in unemployment. Since industry and agriculture are brought back into balanced relationships there will be an opportunity for full employment and for raising the material well-being of our people.

Reorganization Is Exchange Topic

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (INS)—Governors of the New York Curb Exchange will be called into a special meeting at the close of trading today to discuss plans for reorganizing the market.

Fred C. Moffatt, president of the exchange, conferred with William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission last Saturday and it is expected that his views on the reorganization will be conveyed to the governors.

BUSINESS NEWS FIRST

Business news is back in the front rank of market influences, where it rightfully belongs. Our contacts with various observers shows that the feeling new gains will be recorded is practically unanimous. No one has been encountered who holds that a downturn is in prospect. The differences of opinion are all concerned with how much business will rise.

Before the war scare many observers felt fall trade was really going to boom. Now some of them are afraid possible gains have been lost through the interruption. We think that is drawing too fine a line. The important thing is that business is headed higher and if "lost" gains are subsequently made up so much the better.

Good News

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—Given impetus by the Federal Housing Administration program, leading units in the building materials industry have had sharply expanding business since July and volume now is drawing close to the 1937 level.

The spectacular recovery in wool consumption was continued in August, it is revealed in the Department of Commerce statistics for the month, just issued. Wool use averaged 5,784,000 pounds (clean) per week, an increase not only of 27.1 per cent over 4,549,000 pounds consumed weekly in July, but also of 129 per cent over the weekly average of 2,525,000 pounds in April, the recent low point.

Much more than doubling of the rate of consumption in a four-month period is an exceedingly rare experience in the woolen industry.

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 4—Industrial plant employment in Bridgeport during the third week of September reached the highest level since January, 1938, the Manufacturers' association reported.

The New England shoe states led the country in production during August with an output of 13,412,355 pairs, an increase of 9.5 per cent over August, 1937, as compared to a gain of 8 per cent registered in the entire industry during that month, according to an analysis made by the New England Shoe and Leather Association based on statistics just released by the U. S. Bureau of the Census.

Horse Touts Start Sucker Season Early

A RARE PIECE OF HORSE-RACE CURIOSA has come to hand, a perfectly priceless bit of mischief to add to my museum collection of tout literature, come-on brochures and sucker pamphlets which larcenous-minded moochers mail to the chump-trade. The circular is signed by Harry Lauren, the horse jockey whom Narragansett disbarred from race riding on August 4 for having an electric battery in his pocket. Read this and notice the low opinion race grifters have for the average track gambler's intelligence.

AUSTEN LAKE

"You probably have read," states Lauren's (sic) letter, "how I was ruled off the track at Narragansett last summer for getting caught with a battery. Well, it was true all right, and I can't kick. Except it burns me when I think there are lots of others as bad or worse who might be getting away for lots of things and nothing has happened to them.

"I guess somebody has to be the goat, and it was my tough luck to get caught. So now I got the name—I guess I might as well have the game, too.

"I been down here in Cincinnati for several days now, and, even if I can't ride in a race, there ain't nothing to keep me from telling other boys what to do and how to do it. And when it's done the right way—and I sure know how (Ed. note—Not at Narragansett you didn't!) there ain't nothing like it for making a horse get from under and go on about his business."

"When This Little Bee Stings . . ."

"THERE IS A RACE COMING UP HERE at Latonia next Wednesday," continues Lauren, or his weasel hide-behinds, "where the little gadget is being used in order to win a bet. The horse which is being given the works has had it before, and he won all by himself.

"He's more afraid of that little 'buzzer' than the devil is of holy water, and when he gets it again on Wednesday he will come tearing down the stretch hell bent for election.

"The idea of this business is to win as big a bet as possible, and I have just got your name as one who might be interested. I am giving you a chance to win as much as you want . . . (Ed note—phrase deleted here for decorum) . . . No if, ands or buts! When this little bee stings, the race is over, and I don't have to tell you the price will be good.

"Information on a race like this should be worth a lot of money and, in order to make you win a bet Wednesday, I am going to make this proposition.

"Bet five dollars for us on this sure-fire winner and agree to bet ten dollars when something like this comes up again. Will you do that? Don't wait to write as the time is short. Telegraph me at once. H. L. Lauren, Cincinnati, O."

How It Works

WHETHER LAUREN LENT HIS BESMIRCHED name to this skullduggery or whether a ring of shysters made use of it for a quick turnover there's no way of knowing. But, in either case, what happens is this:

The sucker who sees a acceptance of the terms and receives the name of a horse which is supposedly to be "needled." The touting codists telegraphs old records the names of accepting suckers, and screams before the postal autocrities can make a pinch for using the mails to defraud.

Then, if perchance the horse wins, the ring attempts to collect by dunning the sucker. Some pay and some welch, but whatever money received is pure velvet. The suckers who pay will shortly get another phoney tip and so on ad infinitum. The chump population is said to be surprisingly large.

Usually this type of tout bait makes its appearance late in the autumn or early winter when New England tracks are closed and Miami's indulgent administration welcomes the annual inflow of wild-eyed people.

Fat Jack Mc-ne, Turkey Neck Joyce, Dirty Tom Fidler and hundreds of other sundry nicknamed gentry ply their trade unhindered by the authorities, who hardly require them to affiliate with the local lodge and visit roughcliff.

The government carries the mails and returns the dividends. The touts rake in their literature and bask the golden hours away on the silvery sands until the warm spring winds begin to blow. Then they work back North.

Good Old Louie Ostfield

THE BOYS APPEAR TO BE EXTRA HUNGRY this fall. Perhaps war clouds have made the pickings bad. Anyway the come-on literature is beginning early. Along with the Lauren circular, comes one (mailed this month to a Boston recipient) trimmed with red and green ink, with headlines reading:

"Xmas is around the corner. Your wife will need a fur coat. Maybe you'll want a new car. Let Louie Ostfield be your Santa Claus."

Good old Louie, who says he is known to the horse trade as "Square Deal Ostfield, but own worst enemy," is at Laurel, Md., with his case of hypodermic needles, rubber hose plugs and electric saddles, prepared to do business for a select, discriminating clientele, of which you and you and you may be. Recommended as one who recognizes a good thing and keeps the upper jaw closed (or her) mouth.

Louie mentions that he does not wish to attract official notice. Hence he is relying on his customer's sense of fair play to pay honest commissions on his guaranteed picks. All he asks for his perfectly produced listed information is $1 advanced to pay mailing costs and 10 per cent of the take.

The sucker return, I am told by experienced trackmen, runs about 2 per cent of each list of names which are freely exchanged among the mail order touts, whose only expense is ball-room rent, a second hand multigraph machine and a small outlay for postage.

Soon a trickle of "membership" dollars arrives to pay his "nut" and later a splash of "contributions," which vary according to his luck in picking correct race guesses.

The invariable method, I might add, is to divide all the horses run during the race meeting into the sucker list, so that a proportion always make a hit and either come back for more or are enticed by the next "sure thing."

RUFFING VS. LEE

Gabby Switches Outfield for Opener

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (AP)—Bill Lee and Charlie Ruffing today were named starting pitchers for tomorrow's opener of the World's Series between the Chicago Cubs and the New York Yankees.

GABBY ACKNOWLEDGES PLAUDITS AS CUBS RIDE DOWN LA SALLE ST.

Manager Gabby Hartnett's choice of Lee as his starter was hardly a surprise, since the right hander compiled 22 wins as against nine losses in the Cubs' spectacular drive to the National League pennant.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the world's champions picked the veteran strong-armed Ruffing, and Hartnett announced Phil Cavarretta, a left-hand hitter, would play right field for the Cubs and bat in the clean-up spot.

Frank Demaree will switch from right to left field, Hartnett said, with Carl Reynolds in center.

Dizzy Dean, bothered by a sore throwing arm but effective against the Pittsburgh Pirates in the final game of the crucial series last week, warmed up for 15 minutes in practice today and looked good.

'Just Watch Us Go,' Beam Cocky Yankees

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (AP) — The New York Yankees, as confident and cock-sure a ball club as ever stepped off a train into enemy territory, arrived in Chicago ahead of time today, hurried away to the North Side hotel and indicated they were ready to take the Chicago Cubs apart in the World Series opening at Wrigley field tomorrow.

To a man, the American League champions made it plain that they cordially were not worried over the outcome of their approaching skirmish with Gabby Hartnett's scrappy outfit.

"Just watch us go," grinned Outfielder Jake Powell as he and his mates pushed their way

Gabby Set for '39 If He Hadn't Won

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (AP)—On the eve of the World Series there was one worry Charles Leo Hartnett, "Leo the Lion," didn't have—worry over a contract to manage the Cubs in 1939.

Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, said today Gabby would have been retained next year even if he hadn't led the team to the pennant.

"So he certainly hasn't anything to worry about now," Wrigley added. "If I do as good a job running the business end as he did with the team we will be set."

Gabby and his players proved to me what I have always maintained, that spirit and fortunate breaks can bring results. Hartnett didn't wait for the breaks, he went after them. Anybody who gets any place does the same."

Gabby says he will catch the opener tomorrow, even if they have to lug him to the plate in a wheel chair. The first and third fingers of his right hand injured by foul tips last week, still are swollen and sore, but that won't stop him.

The third finger, when taped, will not hamper his throwing. The index finger is discolored and still swollen. For 13 years Hartnett used [illegible] without [illegible] space of [illegible] broken [illegible] spot" finger.

Owner Wrigley believes his investment in "Push-'em Up Tony Lazzeri, former Yank, will bring rich returns. Tony knows the strength and weaknesses of every Yankee except young Joe Gordon who replaced him at second base.

Charlie Grimm was the forgotten man in the division of the Cub share of the World Series spoils. Just why he was not cut in was a subject [illegible] yesterday. It appeared the Cubs for 81 games [illegible] relieved by Hartnett July 20. The players split promises to be the largest in history, an estimated $7000 for each one of the winning team and around $1900 for each of the losers.

The telephone at Gabby Hartnett's home rang so incessantly day and night that he ordered service discontinued until Oct. 19 . . . Dizzy Dean's world series check will go into annuities . . . Larry French's goes into an apartment house building . . . Billy Herman and Clay Bryant bought new cars recently so they will have to think up new ways to spend their dough . . . Hartnett isn't counting on Augie Galan because of his [illegible] knee, and his appearance, if any, will be as a pinch hitter . . . The civic welcome to the Cubs knocked Hartnett cock-eyed . . . "In my 17 years of baseball in Chicago I have had thrill after thrill but never one like this one," he said.

Wrigley Hits Cubs 'Shortsighted' in Grimm Slight

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (INS) Although cut off from the Cubs World Series melon without a cent, former Manager Charley Grimm when the club has congratulations from St. Louis, it was disclosed today.

"Please congratulate Mr. Wrigley (Phil K. Wrigley, club owner, Gabby Hartnett and the boys. They did a swell job all the way and my sincere good wishes are with them," Grimm telegraphed to Mayor Edward Kelly.

Though he managed the Cubs for more than half of the season Grimm was entirely left out of the series split when the players gathered to vote shares.

The Cubs, however, had a precedent in their action. When Grimm took over the reins in midseason of 1932 and went on to win the pennant, Rogers Hornsby, the deposed manager, was not included in the players' pool.

Commenting on this year's money split, Owner Wrigley said:

"I believe it was a trifle shortsighted on the part of the boys in omitting Grimm. However, it is strictly a question for them to decide. Grimm has done very well financially; the Cubs not only paid him for his time as manager, but also up to the end of the year."

Series Will Go 7 Games

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Copyright, 1938, by International News Service

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (INS)—We sent our own doctor out to look at Gabby Hartnett's bad finger. Gabby is cured if he follows his advice. Seems that Gabby is wearing his glove on the wrong hand.

The experts who figure four straight for the Yanks have forgotten Dizzy Dean, Bryant and Lee. We will bet a taxicab full of straw hats that the Cubs take it to the seventh game. Any team that can win the last 21 out of 25 isn't curling up like a worm in a roasting chestnut.

If the Yanks are such Demons, how come they lose 53 baseball games in a season? That means they were bums one-third of the season and their average of .651 is better proof than a thumbprint or a run.

If they're bums that long they can be looked for another week. So can the Cubs. The trouble with all experts is all they show you is how they can win. We're an expert who shows you how to lose.

We reckon the Yanks will not play the Cubs as sudden as the gas company turns off your gas heat.

Pressing, we have no favorites until the first ball is pitched. Then we root for the team that gets the most runs in the series. Our system has never failed us yet.

Daily Double: One thing to remember about batting is that the ball is only likely when you hit it. That Pittsburgh backfield looks like Jock Sutherland has motorized the Four Horsemen.

The Cubs have lost their last five World Series. There is many a team that would like to have a record like that. Frank Chance won with them in 1908. Since then they have lost to the Athletics, Red Sox, Athletics, Yanks and Tigers. By the way, talking about big league pitching, do you know Chance used to stick his head in front of a hook or a curve and take his base? He used to take them right on the skullpiece.

He didn't do it once. He did it season after season. Probably fifty or sixty times in all. Finally it got him. Frank had to keep his hat on while getting his hair clipped. But that was nothing compared to Hughey Jennings studying law at Cornell in the winter time. Hughey took a running jump and dove head first into the college swimming pool. He landed on his bean in the empty aquarium. Do you know, that for almost two seasons, Hughey couldn't read French? That was because he never learned it.

Series Weather

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (INS)—The weatherman turned a skeptical eye today toward tomorrow's world series opener.

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd predicted rain north of Illinois both today and tomorrow, but said he didn't believe it would get as far south as Wrigley Park, site of the game.

"Partly cloudy and cooler" is the way he expects tomorrow to be.

IN CUSTOM-BUILT COMFORT

By the Greatest Custom Bootmaker in America

A "Last" is a piece of wood over which a shoe is made,—but all the fine style lines and comfort features must be whittled into this piece of wood, or you'll never find them in the finished shoe. The rasp of a file may mean the difference between comfort and corns.

That's why we went to Wylie & Peterson, leading Custom Bootmakers of New York, to get our newest Custom Last.

This new stubby toe, with fore-shortened front, makes the foot look shorter and smaller. The increased width across the ball gives more tread and comfort. This new Custom Last embodies all the style secrets of this famous Bootmaker, to combine Custom Style and Custom Comfort.

Mr. Peterson not only whittled out our new "Kent" Last, but also designed the four different Patterns, shown below. And we use the same identical Upper Leathers that he used in his $40 to $50 hand-made Originals.

1. SEAMLESS FULL-BROGUE WINGTIP — Genuine London Grain
2. QUARTER-BROGUE STRAIGHT TIP — Finest Quality Horween's Cordovan
3. SEMI-BROGUE MEDALLION TIP — Saddle-Tan Russia Calf
4. STRAIGHT TIP PERFORATED SIDE PANEL — Finest Quality Norwegian Grain

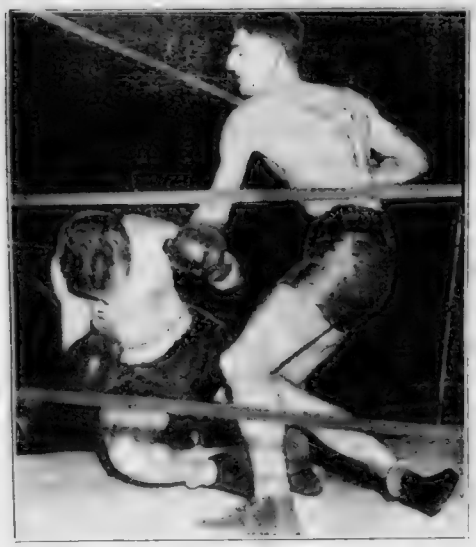
Hearst All-America Amateur Trials Nov. 7



PETER MIDURA JOHNNY McGRATH

8 Classes On 'Pure' Program

By JACK CONWAY

Boston will once more be the scene of the Hearst All-America amateur boxing championships this year.

The first of the trial bouts will be held at the Arena on November 7. There will also be trial contests on November 14, November 21 and November 28.

There will be bouts in the eight [illegible] classes, 112, 118, 126, 135, 147 [illegible] pounds and the heavyweight division. These classes will be open to every [illegible] boxer in New England.

All the final contenders will box [illegible] at the Arena who [illegible] bouts for 12 [illegible] periods.

FINALS AT GARDENS

The New England finals, which will be held [illegible] will be held at the Garden [illegible] on January [illegible].

The winners in the New England [illegible] will compete in the [illegible] with [illegible] from [illegible] Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland, Ore.

The winners of these [illegible] will be sent to New York to take part in the Hearst all America grand national finals.

The Irish American A. A. will [illegible] with the Boston American Sunday Advertiser in conducting the all-America boxing bouts.

The New England A. A. U. will [illegible] to the support to the extent [illegible] tournament.

ACTION IS ASSURED

For years New England has had some of the best amateur boxers in the United States, and this past year will be no exception. The New Englander boxers who will compete in the all Eastern finals are certain to gain glory for themselves and [illegible] for this section of the country.

The two previous all America tournaments furnished brilliant boxing and sturdy fighting. The competition was exceptionally good which was pleasing to the thousands of fans who watched the action. This year's tournament will be even [illegible] for the number and quality of the boys who will compete.

B'S WANT OUTLAW

Cronin Blows Series Dough

Unless they are very lucky neither the Red Sox nor the Bees can hope to get even one worthwhile player during the draft meeting in Chicago tonight . . . The Red Sox will have the 14th choice and the Bees the 7th . . . Jimmy Outlaw, Syracuse third baseman, is the most sought after minor leaguer eligible for the draft . . . Because he suspects a tieup between Cincinnati, Cardinals, Brooklyn and the Phillies, Judge Landis may refuse to sanction the drafting of Outlaw by the Dodgers or Phillies . . . In the event that Outlaw isn't drafted by any of the first six clubs, the Bees are anxious and ready to pay $7500 for the little scrappy third sacker . . . The Bees would like to be awarded a Greater Boston boy, who has been "out" for four years . . . Murray Purvis, the veteran Woodland golfer, starts for his winter home at Orlando, Fla., within a fortnight . . . Joe Cronin "blew" his cut of the World's series when he staged that party for the Red Sox and the scribes last week . . . Gordon Stott, the Tufts tennis player, hits a golf ball as far as anyone in these parts . . . At the request of Lou Little, the Columbia coach, Joe Stevens brought enough pressure to bear to get Art Kadvilas and Joe Benedetti jobs at Wonderland Park . . . Last Saturday, Kadvilas and Benedetti, particularly the former, played important roles in Columbia's victory over Yale, which happens to be Joe Stevens' alma mater . . . John Carreras was at Oyster Harbor over the week end and he says that the popular Cape Cod course has never been in such wonderful condition . . . It was not damaged by the hurricane . . . Bill Duffey, youngest son of the former world's champion 100 yard dash man, has entered Worcester Academy . . . Tony Manero will be the playing pro at Orange Brook C. C. at Hollywood, Fla., this winter . . . He replaces Willie Macfarlane, another former U. S. open title holder . . . George Read, of Newton, the former Andover weight man, who Coach Frank Kanaly expects to be a point winner for Yale next spring, is a nephew of Jack Lane, the old miler, now an executive in the Boston Park Department . . . The ten Metropolitan professionals who raised $4000 so that the "Pro" tournament would be played in Westchester County, may have "blown" their dough . . . George Murphy, the chief sponsor, went for $13,000 and therefore cannot see his way clear to refund the pros . . . Pat Granferante, youngest brother of the famous family, is the pro at the Greeley C. C. out in Colorado.

Devine Wins On Foul

Pat Devine of Cambridge scored the biggest upset of the Irish-American show at the Boston Arena last night when he was awarded the bout in the heavyweight class from Antone Ferry of Fall River on a foul.

Devine had the best of the going until the low punch in the second round.

118—Dick Vaige, Wakefield, defeated Ray Moorcroft, Manchester, N. H., decision.

126—Jack Hurd, Boston, won from Paul Soupa, Boston, default.

135—Bill Sullivan, Boston, kayoed Ed Mentch, South Boston, 2 rounds.

147—James Ranahan, South Boston, kayoed Antonio DeLuco, East Boston, 2 rounds.

158—Lou Viola, Boston, defeated James Ryan, Boston, decision.

War Admiral and Seabiscuit Enter ‡ Sentiment Riding With the Cubs

By JACK CONWAY

IF WAR ADMIRAL and Seabiscuit are to clash this year, it is better that the meeting should be in a handicap such as the Rhode Island Handicap, the closing feature at Narragansett Park on November 12, rather than in a match race.

Mr. Boston

War Admiral and Seabiscuit have both been nominated for the Rhode Island Handicap that will be run over a distance of one mile and one eighth with $10,000 added for three-year-olds and up.

In the event these two great thoroughbreds are starters, Judge James E. Dooley will increase the purse from $10,000 to $25,000.

It is the opinion of persons with the best interest of racing at heart that match races are poor things for the turf sport. They are frequently subjected to serious criticism, and seldom prove a great deal.

In a two-horse race neither thoroughbred, as a rule, shows his true form.

Samuel Riddle, veteran owner of War Admiral, paid a surprise visit to Narragansett Park when held in New England by the recent hurricane. Following a session with Judge Dooley and Billy Ames, Riddle decided to ship 15 horses to Narragansett Park. He also nominated War Admiral for the Rhode Island Handicap.

Following the actions of Riddle, Charles S. Howard nominated Seabiscuit for the same race. Howard's actions came as a complete surprise to the Narragansett officials, and may result in War Admiral and Seabiscuit finally settling the question of racing supremacy.

Among other eligibles for the Rhode Island Handicap are Mrs. Parker Corning's Thanksgiving, W. S. Kilmer's Nedayr, D. A. Wood's Busy K, Felix Spatola's Wise Prince, Ramsey & Coppage's Mucho Gusto, and E. E. Fogleson's Gray Jack and Gray Count.

Hearst All-America Boxing Bouts

THE HEARST All-America amateur boxing championships will once more prove the high spot of the indoor boxing season.

With the trial bouts starting on November 7 and continuing for four weeks with the New England finals on December 5 and the All-Eastern finals on December 12, the fans should witness their share of thrills.

Amateur boxing has been very popular in Boston and throughout New England. This has been due to the fact the various ring shows have been good. There have been attractive entry lists, while the competing boxers have furnished intensified action.

Last year more than 50,000 persons attended the Hearst All-America bouts which were climaxed by the grand nationals at the Garden.

The coming bouts will offer New England boxers an opportunity to test their ring skill and punching power against the leading simon pures in the country.

One Must Pick the Yanks to Win

IF ONE cares for the figures, as the race track handicappers say, he must pick the Yankees to win over the Cubs in the World Series.

Even though Joe McCarthy's team looked very sluggish during the closing days of the American League pennant race, it is still the class as far as the World Series is concerned. The Yankees started to do a little coasting once they had the pennant won, and found it difficult to get going again. Then they began to press, and they had as many troubles as Mr. Average Golfer does when he does his pressing on the links.

A ball club must relax and play its natural, normal game if it is to win.

The Pittsburgh Jitter-Bucco blew their chance to win the National League pennant when they started pressing. They then couldn't do anything right.

I think the Yankees have too many great ball players in their lineup not to return to their normal games for the blue ribbon series.

Cubs Are Sentimental Favorites

THE CUBS and Gabby Hartnett are the sentimental favorites for the series. The Cubs made such a magnificent, driving finish in the National League under the inspired leadership of Hartnett that the fans would like to see them rout the Yankees.

The Cubs are in much the same position as were the 1914 Braves when they went into the World Series with the supposedly unbeatable Athletics. The Braves rushed the Athletics like they had their National League opposition and won in four straight games. They cracked the American League champions wide open, causing Connie Mack to break up his $100,000 infield of Baker, Barry, Collins and McInnis.

If the Cubs win the first game, they are going to be a hard club to beat. They will figure the Yankees are just another ball club.

Colorful players like Hartnett, Dean and Lee will be of tremendous value to the Cubs in the coming series. They won't recognize the superiority the betting odds would seem to give to the Yankees.

Baseball would benefit by a Chicago victory. Such a happening would end the rule of the Yankees, and also take the National League out of the classification of "just another minor league."

Whoa There George Ratcliffe, B. U. halfback, tries to break through bucking strap while Ralph Salvati, left, and Ray Hartley, right, sees that he doesn't progress too far.

Hanley Building Iron Men

By WILL CONNELL

Pat Hanley is building another iron man team at Boston University.

He hopes so, at any rate, and so do Terrier followers because a couple of weeks hence B. U. starts a stretch of T. N. T. football that could flatten a much stronger squad.

Saturday last Boston University tied Lehigh at six-all. Six of B. U.'s linesmen played 60 minutes, one was rested the last five minutes of the second period. That's iron manning.

Pat Hanley

If Hanley's varsity backfield four were as durable the season would be a certain success right now. But when your squad isn't deep, only a tough first team can carry through and the odds are all against that.

B. U. tackles St. Lawrence on Saturday at Fenway Park, then goes to Upsala. Then Army, Western Reserve, University of Tampa, Boston College and Villaneva. Tampa is the only B. U. best bet of the stretch.

The next two games, not too difficult, give B. U. a chance to build up reserves, but the first eleven will carry the mail through the remainder of the year.

The Seven Mules are Ken Swarapowski and Jim McDonald, medium weight ends; Irwin Kopecky, 202, and Paul Sullivan, 179, tackles; Chet Smith and Rollie Bernard, each 200, guards, and Capt. John Walker, 172, center.

Sullivan was the only one who was spelled against Lehigh and he could have gone through.

JUGGLE BACKFIELD

The backfield will be juggled this week, with Earle Crompton going from quarter to fullback, George Ratcliffe and Bob Leahy halfbacks, and Ralph Salvati quarterback. Crompton can click with the move despite the many assignment changes in Hanley's double wingback. Earle was general utility man in '37 and had to know all the answers.

Russ Lawry, ace fullback, was out of the Lehigh game with injuries, and will be rested this week and next if not badly needed. The same is true of Sol Nechtem, B. U. sparkplug whose back was bruised early in the Lehigh affair.

Leahy's case is interesting. He is a senior, baseball captain and a one-time grid star who hasn't played since freshman days, but he can pass and kick. He has regained football instinct rapidly and, given a chance the next two weeks, may be a Terrier lifesaver.

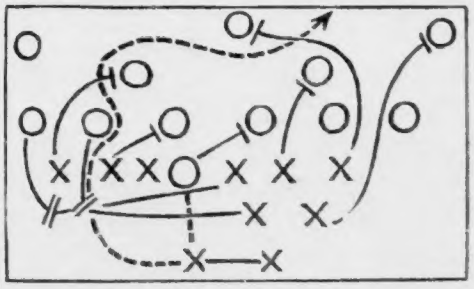
NEEDS BREAK

Backs include Ike Sheehan, Aiden Burnell, Al Clark and John Connearney. John Niemczura, soph fullback, first class, was another banged up against Lehigh who will rest a bit.

That's the B. U. setup. Hanley, one of the few coaches hereabouts stressing double wingback Warner style play, has his team coming along. Given a few breaks, it will win its share of games.

Famous Play



(Wisconsin No. 2)

Here is another play Wisconsin used to set-up a touchdown. The Badgers and Marquette were scoreless when Howie Weiss, the Wisconsin fullback, took the ball on this play and drove to the one-yard line. Wisconsin quickly scored and went on to win, 12 to 0. On this play, Weiss cut outside his left tackle, found an open path when his left end took out the line backer and then cut across field to his right.

Pirates Toss Giants for Loss

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (INS)—The Pittsburgh Pirates forward-passing attack threw the New York football Giants for their second loss of the season at the Polo Grounds tonight as the Pirates romped off with a 13 to 10 victory before 18,805 spectators.

After the Giants took the lead on Ward Cuff's field goal in the third period, the Pirates came back with a fourth period winning touchdown on a 10-yard forward pass, Frank Filchock to Wilbur Sortet. Coach Johnny Blood fumbled the pass from center on the attempted conversion.

Bluenose Holds Edge On Sail Area

The best fishing boat in north Atlantic waters?

Yankee and Nova Scotia fishermen will settle the decade-old argument in a series of three out of five races off the Massachusetts coast beginning Sunday, October 9.

Back in 1930 Captain Ben Pine of Gloucester took his new schooner, the Gertrude L. Thebaud, to Halifax, N. S., and started the controversy by taking two out of three races from the Bluenose, Nova Scotia entry piloted by Captain Angus Walters.

A year later Walters sailed the Bluenose into Gloucester harbor and evened up the score. Neither captains nor crews were satisfied and the matter has simmered and stewed for seven years. Now the two ships are after the rubber. This time three out of five over a 40-mile triangular course, alternating off Boston and Gloucester, with a five-hour time limit.

The Bluenose, 10 years older and considerably larger than the Thebaud, carries 10,500 square feet of sail, 25 per cent greater than her rival, but in fishermen's races no allowances are made or asked. Boat is matched against boat, skill against skill with a united prayer for plenty of wind.

Adamick

In Oxygen Tent

DETROIT, Oct. 4 (AP)—Henry Ford Hospital physicians disclosed that Jimmy Adamick, Midland, Mich., heavyweight who suffered a cerebral concussion in a knockout defeat, has been placed in a oxygen tent, but his manager, Jimmy Brady, said he was informed it was only to guard against pneumonia.

A blood transfusion also was given Adamick, which Brady said was for purposes of speeding the patient's recovery. Dr. Albert Crawford, attending physician, said Adamick was "slightly improved" today.

Adamick was knocked out by Roscoe Toles of Detroit in the second round of their fight last Wednesday night and was unconscious for more than 11 hours afterward.

Tech Harriers Race Saturday

A cosmopolitan Tech cross-country runners are hoping to "get off on the right foot" in the opening meet of the season Saturday against Connecticut State at Franklin Park.

Coach Oscar Hedlund of the Engineers has had his men out daily since college opened. He is satisfied that it will be one of the best Tech hill and dale teams in recent years.

Captain Edward Crosby is one of the Tech "best bets." Olaf Rustad of Norway is another youth whose stamina has astounded Coach Hedlund. Hilme Sherefr, from Instabul, Turkey, is a third youth whose heart and stamina may enable the Cardinal and Gray to outrace the visitors.

Hedlund announced the freshman team will race Quincy High Saturday over the Franklin Park course.

Mayors See Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, in announcing today that he would leave tonight for the opening World Series game in Chicago tomorrow, added that he had wired Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago offering to bet him "a box of good cigars against a box of stogies" that the Yankees beat the Cubs in the series.

Mayor LaGuardia will attend both of the Chicago games and then return to New York for the third game of the series at Yankee Stadium Saturday.

Nova Stops Barlund In Seventh

By MORTON MOSS

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Oct. 4 (INS)—Lou Nova of Alameda, Calif., tonight scored a technical knockout over Gunnar Barlund of Finland in 1:42 of the seventh round last night.

Referee Arthur Donovan called a halt with the Finn a pitiful sight, his left eye a weird smear of blood and his face streaked with crimson streams.

The Pacific coast youth, returning to the Garden after an absence of two years, made a gallant comeback, snapping up off the floor in the third round after being felled by a pile-driving right delivered by the 204-pound Finn.

Slightly woozy in the next round, Nova, nevertheless held his own.

In the sixth heat, Nova opened up and had the Finn bleeding from the eye, cheek and lips.

The California clouter, poised on his two dancing feet, measured the hapless Finn in the seventh and ripped right and left to his opponent's red-raw face.

Then, with cries of "stop it!" hurled from the crowd, the battle was halted after 1:42 as the Finn reeled a grotesque mask of blood, his left eye dangerously battered.

Lake, Corum Cover Series

Austen Lake and Bill Corum!

These two famous sports writers will give you a grandstand seat at the World Series that opens in Chicago tomorrow afternoon. They will give you graphic word pictures of the battle between the Yankees and Cubs for the highest honors in baseball.

Austen Lake was a leading baseball writer before he gained national fame as an ace columnist, and will describe the high spots of the games in his vivid style.

Corum has ridden thousands of miles with ball clubs, and is familiar with the playing of the Yankees and Cubs.

The Boston Evening American will have a box score edition on the street immediately after each game. It will be complete in every detail with the latest and best in World Series news.

'Watch Us'--Yanks

through several hundred fans who were on hand even though the Yank special pulled into Union Station about 45 minutes early.

CHICAGO ALL EXCITED

The Cubs, still picking ticker tape out of their hair from the rousing welcome home given them, chose to do their limbering-up before noon and then turned the park over to the visiting firemen from the American League.

The town is pretty much excited about the big event which has dropped so suddenly and dramatically into its lap. Hotels already are crammed, and tickets for the first two games here are getting scarce.

There isn't much betting. The locals think their club, on the crest of a great winning streak, has a good chance to jolt the formidable Yanks, but they aren't letting their enthusiasm run away with their financial judgment.

Unofficial odds hereabouts favor the Yanks by about 3 to 1.

LEE SERIES VETERAN

Lee pitched in two games for the Cubs when they lost the 1935 World Series to Detroit, 4 games to 2. He started one and was the relief hurler in the other, but neither was credited with a victory nor charged with a defeat.

Chicago's chances seem to hinge on the possibility that Lee, a 22-game winner this year, can stop the Manhattan murderers twice, and maybe three times. He has speed, a sharp curve and a world of stamina.

Yank adherents, however, point to the fact that few pitchers ever manage to fool DiMaggio, Dickey, Gehrig and the others twice running.

Clay Bryant, the other strong-arm member of the Cubs' staff, is the logical choice to oppose Lefty Gomez in the second go round. He is a little faster than Lee, so the New Yorkers can look forward to a diet of speed for the first two days.

In the third game in New York they are likely to get a look at Dizzy Dean's new assortment of curves and cunning. Old Diz is yelling for a shot at the big fellows.

The Yankees are seeking their third straight world championship, a record which up to now has defied all the great clubs in history. So the Cubs figure that the percentage is all on their side.

Grimm Cheers

Lauds Ex-Mates

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (INS)—Charlie Grimm, deposed as manager of the Chicago Cubs in mid-season, whose name was conspicuously missing from those voted World Series shares by the Cubs today, was conspicuously present today among Cub well-wishers.

In a telegram to Mayor Edward J. Kelly from St. Louis, read at the mayor's official reception to the Cubs, Grimm said:

"Regret very much I cannot attend reception of Cubs. Previous engagement keeps me here in St. Louis. Please congratulate Mr. Wrigley, Gabby Hartnett and the boys. They did a swell job all the way and my sincere good wishes are with them always."

Twin School Bill on Today

The daily doubleheaders for the intown schools begin today at National League Field.

First two games bring together Roslindale High and East Boston in the opener at 2 o'clock with Roxbury Memorial stacking up against Mechanic Arts in the nightcap.

Of the two, the first game seems to be the better one.

Coach Fred Murray's lads from Roslindale are expected to continue their meteoric rise.

Murray fields almost a veteran eleven while Coach O'Brien's troupe is of unknown quantity.

In the other tilt, Tom Campbell's Roxbury Memorial eleven, which always is a fairly good aggregation, is expected to get plenty of opposition from the Artisans.

Paul Runge Sold To Cleveland Club

CLEVELAND, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Cleveland Barons of the International American Hockey League announced the purchase of Paul Runge, left-winger of the disbanded Montreal Maroons of the National League.

Harvard Lacks Reliable Punter

With Foley, Harding, Burnett, and Macdonald all rated as better-than-average punters, Coach Dick Harlow did not regard the kicking problem at Harvard as too acute this fall—that is, up to last Saturday. When the kicking of the supposedly potent Crimson triple-threats fell below expectations, against Brown, another headache presented itself to the Harvard mentor.

Looking ahead to Cornell next Saturday, the picture would not have been any cheerier except that reports had begun to trickle in from upper New York that the Big Red team might experience similar kicking deficiency.

PECK HAD BIG DAY

Cornell's opener with Colgate only proved to heap more worries on Dick Harlow, however, for the statistics showed that George Peck, Snavley's most feared running back, had had a regular field for himself in returning punts.

The Red Raiders of Colgate punted 16 times to Mr. Peck, who then proceeded to "ghost" his way back for a total of 209 yards. Peck ranks as one of the fastest men playing intercollegiate football today and should achieve a fame equal to Princeton's Jack White as a demon safety-man.

All of this did not escape the vigilance of Freshman Coach Skip Stahley of Harvard, who scouted the Cornelliana, with the result that the Crimson's kickers and ends will observe Mr. Peck with even more than the customary respect next Saturday.

DULL PUNTERS

Harvard's kickers held a half-hour session in the Stadium yesterday under the direction of End Coach Wes Fesler.

On the basis of Saturday's performances in this important department, Harvard's kickers have a long way to go if they are to keep the irrepressible Peck from running wild again.

Briggs Sees Flag For Tigers in '40

By Associated Press

Dr. James Stotter, New York plastic surgeon, will fly to the Coast to see what can be done about fixing up Maxie Rosenbloom's map so the old slapsie can go for those lover's roles in the movies.

Hank Greenberg, who came within three homers of being famous, has turned barnstormer and will give the Yanks and Cubs a little competition next Sunday when he appears with the Bay Parkway semi-pros . . . Some tall decisions had to be made up in the Northern Hunting runs last Saturday . . . Opening of the duck season collided with several red-hot football dates . . . It was Rah! Rah! vs. Bang! Bang!

Hank Greenberg

Don't let anybody sell you the idea that Washington's huskies aren't good just because they lost to Minnesota . . . Jimmy Phelan's crew is highly respected . . . He has a whale of a backfield, three deep except at quarter, but the line needs some repairs it undoubtedly will get.

Al Schacht, who begins clowning in his 19th World Series tomorrow, already has dipped into pro football and would not be adverse to entertaining the amateurs except they don't pay . . . Jack Corbett, president of the Syracuse Chiefs, is getting in a little early winter training at Lake George, N. Y. . . . Rumors persist Connie Mack will throw hard-hitting Bob Johnson on the market this winter.

Young Spike Briggs is telling Detroiters the Tigers will not win the pennant in 1939, but will in 1940 . . . Well, War Admiral doesn't have to lie awake nights worrying about racing Seabiscuit . . . That Sutherland at Pitt must be a wizard, at that . . . Year after year he keeps coming up with 'em . . . Show us another coach who can do that and the drinks are on us.

Fiorini To Call 'Em For Tufts

The eyes of the Tufts grid fans are focussed upon Elmer Fiorini, former Lynn English star, who is being considered for the quarterback berth. George Chiros of Whitman, who called the signals for Saturday's game, took a terrific beating, and the Jumbo coaches are thinking that the alternation of quarterbacks might be advantageous to the team.

The Tufts players admit that the Colby eleven, which whitewashed them to the tune of 23-0 Saturday, was dynamite.

Jerry Edwards, regular tackle, who played the entire game with a dislocated nose, was able to go through the scrimmage held at the Oval yesterday afternoon, but Right End Jimmy Dodwell had to take the day off after going through the regular physical examination.

Stiff scrimmages are scheduled for every day this week, with stress upon blocking and tackling, the failure of which proved so disastrous on Saturday afternoon.
